KLAN TO SUE CITY

PROTEST ARREST OF A SPEAKER

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 2.—Ku klux klan officials today signified their intention of filing damage suits against the city of Lexington, following the arrest of Neal H. Lougher, klan speaker, as he attempted to address a crowd of about 1,000 from the court house steps last night.

He was arrested about five minutes after he began speaking, altho he had not mentioned the klan. After giving bond at the police station he returned and told the audience that there would be no meeting, but he led them in repeating the Lord's prayer and in singing America. Immediately after he was arrested again on the same charge and required to give bond at the police station

Klan officers had anticipated the police move and had prepared a petition for an injunction restraining the police from interfering with the meeting. It was presented to the circuit court of appeals clerk in the absence of the judge, but he refused to act on such short notice.

MARTIAL LAW IS THREATENED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Aug. 2.—King Fisher county was threatened with martial law today following the whipping of George Elderly a masked mob

Gov. J O Walton asked local authorities for a complete report on the flogging and awaited word on steps being taken to clear up the case. At the capitol it was indicated troops would be ordered to the county in case a satisfactory report was not forthcoming

Following a recent declaration of martial law in Okmulgee county, the governor announced he would place every county in the state under control of troops if necessary to stamp out mob law and violence.

HARDING HEARS BASEBALL NEWS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—President Harding was reported to be passing a quiet morning at 11:20 a. m. today.

E. E. Hemsberg, of Santa Ana, Cal., brother-in-law of the president and the Misses Katherine and Neil Marie Remsberg called at the presidential suite at 11 o'clock. On leaving, Remsberg said the president "still looked like a sick man."

Harding, altho sick, is still taking lively interest in everything that's going on in the world—from politics to baseball.

"He always insists upon hearing the baseball scores," Dr. J. T. Boone, one of his physicians, declared today in telling how the president insists on having newspapers brought to him every morning.

The things in which the president is interested are read to him, Mr. Harding directing what shall be read.

"The president is particularly interested in Cincinnati's fight for the pennant," Dr. Boone said.

"When the Reds lost on Tuesday and I told him about it he immediately mumbled some excuse for the lapse.

"He isn't missing a trick as far as what's going on in the world. Don't think for a minute he's satisfied to lie on his back and let the world wag without him.

"The president chats occasionally with the physicians and with Mrs. Harding. He is eager to converse and shows interest both in his own case and in affairs everywhere."

Mrs. Harding is showing no ill effects of the strain being put upon her. She spends much of her time at the president's bedside keeping him in good humor.

"We don't know when we will be able to admit visitors to see him. Not for some time, anyway. We want to take the best of care of him and he is willing to follow our advice. We are also being very careful in the matter of food. His diet is composed for the most part of milk."

LATE MARKETS.

Iowa Weather and Crop Report.

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 2.—Corn about held its own during the last week, threatened damage by heat and drouth previous week being arrested by general showers and by somewhat lower temperatures In most of the state ears are forming slowly and conditions have not been very favorable for pollenization. A good soaking rain would still work wonders in improving the crop.—Lamson Bros & Co

Daily Grain Letter.

CHICAGO, Aug 2.—Absence of export business and lack of speculative interest were the chief reason for today's moderate decline in wheat values. The former condition may be attributed largely to financial conditions in Europe and the latter to interference with the normal functioning of the grain business Crop reports from American and Canadian northwest were pessimistic and it is believed further complaints will come from Canada as a result of the recent abnormally cold weather.

Corn moved within a narrow range but eased off late with wheat, reports of rains in parts of the southwest and cooler weather in most sections

Oats were affected by the leading grains, closing with fractional losses

We favor the buying side on any further dip, but would not overlook good trading profits. Later on long time investment opportunities will doubtless be afforded.—Lamson Bros. & Co

Chicago Stocks.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Stocks were strong most of the day but gave way slightly in the late trading as a result of profit taking. Investors were encouraged by a continued improvement in the condition of President Harding, Premier Baldwin's conservative remarks in connection with Great Britain's stand in the Ruhr matter and good earnings statements by a number of leading industrial concerns. The same conditions prevailed in the Chicago market. We believe the market will offer excellent trading and investment opportunities if shares are selected with discrimination.—Lamson Bros. & Co.

ROYALISTS HATCHING PLOT AT DOORN? IMPERIAL FLAG BOLDLY FLOWN IN HOLLAND

Rumors that a sumptuous yacht, the Hohenzollern, flying the imperial German flag, dropped anchor off the Island of Wieringen and took on board the former German crown prince, and being connected with the hasty visit of the crown prince to Holland, where the ex-kaiser at Doorn and the occasion of the seizure of the Captain von Ilsemann, which the ex-kaiser was visiting, when the imperial flag was so boldly raised These activities of the Hohenzollerns coupled with those of royalists in Germany, seem to indicate that a hopeful outlook for the kaiser's return to Berlin is seen.

ATTORNEY SKILES GRANTED HIS FEE

Secures Judgment of $50,045.32 Against Company After Three Years of Litigation and Court Awards Him $11,500.

Attorney C. M. Skiles was granted $11,500 as his fee for collecting a $50,045.32 judgment against the Nebraska Building and Investment company by the county court Thursday. Mr. Skiles while acting as attorney for the state of Fannie E. Griggs, an incompetent, secured this judgment against the company after three years of litigation and after carrying it to the supreme court.

Fannie E. Griggs inherited a farm from Peter M. Kerlin, which was later sold by her and $44,000 of the proceeds was invested in the stock of the Nebraska Building and Investment company. Some time after the transaction it was found that Miss Griggs was mentally incompetent to make the transaction and suit was brought to recover the money. After carrying the suit to the supreme court the judgment was finally secured and was collected by Mr. Skiles on July 21, 1923.

Several attorneys took the stand in the investigation and the consensus of their estimates as to a reasonable fee was about $12,000.

The matter was brought before County Judge Reid for settlement Tuesday morning. The judge took it under advisement and announced his decision Thursday morning.

SHERIFF TO HOLD CHILD

Omaha Judge Orders Roger Williams Kept by Officer, Pending Fight of Parents.

OMAHA, Aug. 2.—Judge Leslie in district court today ordered Roger Williams six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Williams, New York, held in custody of Sheriff Endres while hearing on which parent shall have the child is had.

The Williams, while separated, are not divorced Little Roger has been living here with Williams mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Williams. Both parents are in New York

Mrs. Rose Bellow, Brooklyn, sister of Mrs. Roger Williams today brought habeas corpus proceedings to have child returned to its mother.

Mrs Williams, acting for her son, protested against this action The case was continued until late this afternoon.

Williams is a retired colonel on general Pershing's staff and is now a bond salesman in New York. The family is prominent in New York society.

Judge Leslie intimated he may send the child to New York in custody of the sheriff to let New York courts settled the case

MAY PARDON TWO CONVICTS

If Donahey Is Too Severely Criticized. He May Free Both His Servants.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug 2—If Governor Donahey's opponents too severely criticize him for taking two life term prisoners from the Ohio penitentiary on a fishing trip into Canada, the governor is likely to pardon both convicts it was indicated here today

It was learned at the governor's office that the pardon of Earl Jennings one of the prisoners already has been signed

State house friends of the governor pointed out there is nothing to prevent the state's chief executive from issuing pardons to both Jennings and Ciprani while they are still in Canada.

FINANCES IN NEBRASKA.

State Treasurer Robinson's report shows that on the 1st of August he had to his credit $3,613,698, nearly all of which was in depository banks. A month ago he had $4,393,000 on hand, the excess of expenses over receipts causing the drop.

The general fund overdraft of $25,000 was wiped out at one time during July, but has increased to $109,463. The capital fund has in it $2,040,000 lessened $93,000 by expenditures of $130,530 which were not made up by receipts.

RELIGION IS WORLD NEED

HARDING'S MESSAGE SAYS THAT CHRIST'S SPIRIT REQUIRED.

Secretary Christian Delivers Address at Hollywood to Templars, Which President Had Intended to Give in Person.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 2.—Civilization needs "more of the Christ spirit, more of the Christ practice and a new and abiding consecration to reverence for God.

This was the mesage brought from President Harding today to the Knights of Templars of California by George B. Christian, Mr. Harding's secretary.

By the president's direction, Christian read before the grand commandery, Knights Templar, a speech Mr. Harding had intended to deliver in person this afternoon, in transferring the "beauseant" or sacred banner of the order from the jurisdiction of Ohio commanderies to the temporary keeping of the California knights.

The "Beauseant" is a reproduction of the banner under which the crusading knights of the middle ages fought in their attempts to redeem the holy land from the Saracens. The present day "Beauseant" is on a pilgrimage, being transferred from time to time from one jurisdiction to another, with appropriate ceremonies President Harding was selected by the Marion, Ohio, commandery to bring the banner to California.

"I am sure the mission of the Beauseant will be a failure if its travels are made simply a matter of symbolism and pageantry," the president's message said "We should glorify the holy name not by words, not by praise not by displays at arms, but by deeds and service in behalf of human brotherhood. Someone has said, in speaking of our present day civilization, that we need less of religion and more of Christianity. This may be crudely expressed but it contains a great truth. Perhaps I will best express my thought if I say we need less of sectarianism, less of denominationalism, less of fanatical zeal and its exactions, and more of the Christ spirit, more of the Christ practice and a new and abiding consecreation of reverence to God.

"I am a confirmed optimist as to the growth of the spirit of brotherhood.

The president paid a tribute to fraternal organizations founded on a basis of Christian brotherly love. He told how, in Alaska, he was admitted to membership in the Alaska pioneers, a secret fraternal order.

"I was obligated never to kick a dog or to work a horse with a sore back or shoulder," he said. "Now that was a simple thing that Christ himself would have urged; it was an expression of mercy and affection by these pioneers for the brutes who could not speak or protest, of considerate concern for a life of service."

SUIT TO TAKE CHILD FROM PRESENT HOME

Neighbors Send in Complaints in Regard to Lorene Johnson's Removal From Home of Foster Parents.

On complaint of the juvenile authorities suit was brought in District Judge Morning's court Thursday to remove Lorene Johnson, a child five years old, from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Palmer, 3428 P street, her foster parents. The action was filed when the neighbors of the Palmers sent in complaints that they did not think that the Palmer home was a fit one for the child to be brought up in. Several of the neighbors were present and made these statements on the witness stand.

Lorene was born at Mrs. West's maternity home in Bethany, her father was killed in action in France and her mother died at the time of her birth. Two day after her birth she was placed in the Palmer home by Mrs. West and has lived with them ever since. It is alleged in the evidence that the Palmers are continually fighting and cursing in her presence and that the child is so superior to her surroundings that she should be given a better chance. The taking of the evidence for the prosecution occupied the entire morning. The case was continued to the afternoon session.

SENSATION IN FEUD MURDER

CUMBERLAND COURT HOUSE, VIRGINIA, Aug 2 - Spectators at the trial of Larkin C Garrett, jointly indicted with his brother Robert for the murder of the Rev E S Pierce, on June 5, were tensely waiting today for the defense to show its hands

The prosecution, having played its trumps yesterday in the testimony of the widow of the slain pastor and several eye witnesses were expected to rest today

Expectations were that the defense would call only five witnesses and would take only a day in presenting its case

Thrills for which people from a large section about the court house were crowded into room came in yesterday's testimony Thirteen eye witnesses pointing Mrs Pierce said the weapons of the tragedy that grew out of a bitter Cumberland mountain feud

She described the Garrett brothers visit how she tried to stop Larkin Garrett from beating her husband, how she screamed for help, how Robert Garrett hurled her away while she held an infant in one arm and tried to pull Larkin Garrett away from her husband with the other, how Robert Garrett cursed her and how her husband came into the house and procured his shotgun and revolver staggering back into the yard to his death in spite of her pleadings with him not to go back

The state rested its case near noon

Defense counsel stated that Larkin Garrett would take the stand in his own behalf this afternoon and that Robert Garrett may follow him on the stand

A Ford roadster owned by Silvia Regan, 2148 S and which was stolen Wednesday night was found early Thursday at Thirty third and T streets where it had been abandoned Police discovered the machine had been stolen between 9:30 and 10 p m Wednesday evening from the Antelope Park pavilion

IMPROVEMENT IN PRESIDENT

Spends Restful Night and Awakens Refreshed.

NOT TO RECEIVE VISITORS

Unable as Yet to Take Any Solid Food.

Danger Is Not Yet Passed But Indications Are Hopeful, Physicians State in Bulletin.

WITH PRESIDENT HARDING'S PARTY, PALACE HOTEL, SAN FRANCISCO. Aug. 2—President Harding spent a restful night and awoke this morning feeling much refreshed, his physicians reported at 10 a. m. today.

The president slept later than usual. There was little activity about his chamber after he fell asleep early in the night. His usual breakfast, of warmed milk, two soft boiled eggs and toast, was taken to him about 8 a. m. He ate with enjoyment.

The president's morning was spent as usual being shaved and prepared for the day, eating his breakfast and reading the morning papers.

It is probable that the president will receive no visitors today due to his exhausted condition.

Cabinet officers who visited the suite reported that their chief's progress was highly satisfactory.

The president probably will be unable to take solid food for some time yet. His attending physicians withhold predicitions as to this signal as to the improvement in Mr. Harding's condition for the same reason they are unable to tell when he will be able to be moved—they do not know.

There was continued quiet in the presidential corridors.

Consulting physicians issued this statement at 9:45 a. m:

"The president had several hours of restful sleep during the night and except for marked exhaustion of an acute illness, expresses himself as feeling easier this morning. The temperature is 98.2 degrees; pulse, 100 and respiration 32 to 40. The lung condition shows definite improvement. Small quantities of food are being taken and elimination remains satisfactory. While recovery will inevitably take some time, we are more confident than heretofore as to the outcome of his illness. "It was signed by Dr. C. E. Sawyer, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Dr. C. M. Cooper and Dr. Hubert Work.

While all indications furnished by Mr. Harding's condition pointed to uninterrupted progress towards complete recovery, his doctors, headed by Dr. Charles E. Sawyer, warned that "ups and downs" undoubtedly would occur and that some days the president might not be so well. Even at the best Dr. Sawyer emphasized, the path to recovery health will be slow and Mr. Harding will for some days to come continue to be a very sick man.

For the present, at least the twice daily consultations of doctors will continue. A little later when the president's condition seems to warrant it, some of the doctors may discontinue their attendance, merely standing by to lend their aid if it is again needed. Dr. Sawyer and his colleagues have been careful and will continue to avoid making definite predictions concerning the probable time of any particular development in the case, such as the abandonment of the two a day consultations.

Danger Not Passed.

The immediate present is all that the doctors dare speak of in terms of certainty, Sawyer made plain in one of his frank talks about the case. No matter how skilled, he said, no medical man can foretell at what hour or what day Mr. Harding can be considered to have passed definitely out of danger. There is danger so long as the president remains subject to any complications, no matter how slight. These complications which are common to all sick persons, Dr. Sawyer said, might include anything from an ulcerated tooth to nervousness or indigestion. Such developments, he explained would be dangerous only in the sense that they would constitute "danger signals" warning the doctors that there was some interruption in the march towards recovery.

Mr. Harding is resigned to a slow convalescence and is giving his doctors the very great assistance of his patience. He makes no complaint; indeed, he feels he has been fortunate. Sawyer said, in "coming safely thru a very severe storm."

The first attempt yesterday to increase Mr. Harding's daily food quota by giving him two eggs instead of one at a meal, caused him some distress, but no bad effects remained for long. The elimination of poisons continued satisfactory. The exhaustion symptoms persisted, but that will be the case for some time, Sawyer said, because the president had touched the very bottom of his reservoir of his vitality. Temperature became and stayed normal, showing that the "fever fires are out". Sawyer said. Breathing and pulse were less rapid

Not Allowed Visitors

The president will not be allowed to receive visitors today nor for some days to come General Pershing called last night but saw only Sawyer and Mrs. Harding. The president's sister Mrs E E Remsberg of Santa Ana, Cal., remained in town today and Attorney General Daugherty was also an early caller to inquire for his friend's condition.

It was definitely made known last night that Mr. Harding will go straight to Washington when he leaves San Francisco and will not remain in California during the final period of convalescence which will put him on his feet for the duties of his office. Sawyer said he would not permit the president for months to come to "plunge" back into work with the same vigor as formerly, but he said that Mr. Harding's recovery would leave him at least as well as he was when he left Washington, for his Alaskan trip. The president will not be an invalid.

DR. CONNELL FILES SUIT

BRINGS BREACH OF PROMISE CASE TO SUPREME COURT.

Former Private Secretary Secured $50,000 Judgment Against Him Because He Wedded Another Woman.

Dr. Karl Connell of Omaha filed with the supreme court Thursday his appeal from the verdict of the jury that gave Miss Violet Johnstone of New York $50,000 as heart balm. The record contains 719 pages of testimony taken in the court in Douglas county, photographs of himself that he had given her and photographs of herself that she gave him. There are also many letters that were exchanged between the two that drip with love's honey.

Miss Johnstone asked for $50,000 damages and the jury gave her every cent she demanded. Connell is well connected in Omaha. He made his medical debut in New York, where the two became acquainted in 1904. He says that the verdict is excessive, that it was the result of passion and prejudice, that the Omaha newspapers made it difficult to get a fair trial, and that the judgement is not supported by the evidence. The usual allegations of error on the part of the trial judge are included. The girl's story was that their friendship ripened into love, that they were engaged to be married and she waited only until he could thoroughly establish himself. The war, in which he served, disturbed his New York practice so that he deemed it advisable to return to his old home in Omaha. She says she visited him there. She also alleges that out of her great love for him she gave in to his entreaties and that he debauched her.

In September of last year Connell married a Miss Roof, back in New Jersey, after which the suit was filed. The plaintiff submitted her letters from him. Hers were the more endearing. She addressed him as "my dearest and neglected only one", "beloved sweetheart," "my beloved only one," "my dear, dear, only one," "my very dearest only one" and the like. In one she said she was crazy to see him. In another she said she wanted to "love you squeeze you and kiss you," and she signed as "adoringly and devotedly," as ever and always your," "with love and kisses and the like.

Always at the end was a long string of X's indicating kisses, usually numbered and then multiplied by ten or some other number. One sought to convey a million of them. The doctor's formula was more precise like XXX x 24 equals X 1—3."

COW DISPUTE CAUSES SPLIT

Son Broods Over Words With His Father and Leaves Farm Home Near Beatrice.

A sixteen year-old giant in stature, standing 5 feet 11 inches without his brogans, deserted his farm home near Beatrice on Wednesday night because he and his father could not agree on the great cow question. Word reaching state law enforcement headquarters indicates that the quarrel resulted from failure to agree on the milking side of the question.

Paul Feil went to bed as usual but during the night commenced to brood over the quarrel. He packed a few clothes and silently left the house and farm. He has a brother and sister living in the western part of the state and it is believed he may have struck out for that section. He is described as having dark hair and eyes wearing a blue shirt, overalls and oxfords

CHIROPRACTOR DENIES PERFORMING ILLEGAL OPERATION,

Wife of Taxi Driver Testifies She Paid Dr. C. C. Herbert ofr Criminal Operation on Katherine Roth.

The preliminary hearing of Dr. Clarence C. Herbert, forty-six, a chiropractor who is charged with performing a criminal operation upon Katherine Roth, eighteen, on the night of July 24 is under way in Justice Stevens' court The testimony of Fay Holmes, taxi driver, twenty-one, and his wife, Irene twenty-three, was taken. Mrs. Holmes testified that she gave Doctor Herbert $25 for performing the operation.

Mrs. Holmes told of her husband admitting he had intimate relations with Miss Roth six weeks previous and that she met the latter at Fifteenth an O streets and arranged to have the illegal operation performed. She went to the office of Dr. Herbert, "He said that it would take money for the operation" Mrs. Holmes said, "and said that he could perform it at any other place than at his office. The following night when Miss Roth was at our rooms I called him and he came." The doctor tok instruments and proceeded with the operation after which Mrs. Holmes paid him the $25.

This, she said, took place at about 9:30 in the evening.

Doctor Herbert faces two charges, the performing of the alleged operation, and with Mr. and Mrs. Fay Holmes is charged with conspiracy to commit a felony by arranging for the operation. Mr. and Mrs. Holmes each pleaded innocence last week. They waived preliminary hearing and were bound over to district court. Each was released on $500 bond. The doctor pleaded innocence to each of the two charges when arraigned Thursday morning just previous to the hearing. At noon Thursday Attorney Tyrrell, for the doctor, made a motion that the defendant be dismissed on the grounds that sufficient evidence had not been introduced and that it had not been proved that Miss Roth was pregnant prior to the alleged operation. Attorney Max Towle, for the state, said that he would introduce more evidence.

Miss Roth is at a hospital. She was taken there on July 26. It was necessary, according at attending physicians, to perform a second operation to save her life. She is recovering nicely, according to report. Miss Roth lives in West Lincoln.

Fay Holmes said on the stand that he had intimate relations with Miss Roth six weeks ago. "I hope not." Holmes answered when asked if he know he was subject to criminal prosecution for having these relations. He said that he took Miss Roth riding several times and admitted that he drew $25 from his employer and gave the money to his wife. Mrs. Holmes told the court that the doctor had first asked $50 but later agreed to $25. She told of Miss Roth going to the Holmes rooms at 1920 K where she submitted to the operation and later was taken to her home by a sister. The Holmes' have a daughter two years old. "It took fifteen or twenty minutes to perform the operation." Mrs. Holmes said. "and Miss Roth cried out at times and showed indications of pain."

Doctor Herbert was calm and sat in the court room with bowed head during most of the hearing. The room was crowded.

MANY COMING TO ASSEMBLY

STATE GATHERING AWAITS THE OPENING THURSDAY EVENING.

Registration to Date Reported Heavy—Park Grounds in Excellent Condition—Buildings Have Been Repainted.

The Nebraska Epworth assembly is ready for the tap of the gong. The colored jubilee singers who are to open the 1923 program Thursday evening have arrived on the grounds.

"The grounds are in fine shape." said President C A. Fulmer. "They are clean and the buildings have been repainted. The water has been tested and found to be in excellent condition. The grounds are watered by eight deep wells."

Approximately 60 per cent of the campers had registered at noon. The total registration was estimated at 1,500, about the same number as last year. The park contains forty acres it is crowded for room. About seventy five cottages have been built since the cottage idea took root, and ten new ones appear this year. Cottages are restricted to a certain part of the park. A big section has been given over to the automobiles for parking purposes but more room is needed. Cottages are displacing tents because they afford a real home atmosphere, but tents are still very popular in keeping with the woodland atmosphere.

Many campers store their household effects at the park, bringing with them a few additional articles. Some bring their whole outfit in their cars and the old time bustle of heavily laden wagons with creaking wheels is almost a thing of past days.

Good roads will swell the gate receipts of the assembly, and the management is keeping a watchful eye on the weather. Much patronage comes from within a radius of fifty or one hundred, miles of Lincoln. If the roads remain good, hundreds of loaded automobiles are expected to head for the park during the ten days of the assembly program. Many return home at night and are back the next day.

COUNTESS SEEKS A DIVORCE FROM HER AMERICAN HUSBAND

COUNTESS NINA DI CARRARA.

Countess Nina di Carrara, in private life Mrs. Alfred Hollingsworth of Los Angeles, is seeking a divorce from her actor husband on the ground of failure to provide. The case, now being heard in Los Angeles courts, has aroused more than usual interest because of the Italian title which the wife holds. Hollingsworth asserts that he is the third matrimonial risk of Mrs. Hollingsworth and accuses her of frequent hectic outbursts of temperament.

STATE TAKES JURISDICTION

COMMISSION HOLDS IT CONTROLS USE OF ELEVATOR SITES.

Railroad Companies Must Not Discriminate and Are Entitled to Reasonable Return on Investment.

The state railway commission, in opinion by Commissioner Browne, holds that it has jurisdiction over industry sites along the lines of railroads in the state, and that in fixing what the rental charge shall be it must be guided in each case by what constitutes a reasonable return on the reasonable value of the land leased and occupied.

The case has been pending for a considerable time. Complaint was filed by the Nebraska Farmers Co-operative Grain and Live Stock association and the Nebraska farm bureau federation against the Northwestern, Union Pacific and St. Joe & Grand Island roads. They alleged that the companies were charging unfair, unreasonable and increasing charges for lease-holds for elevator industries located on rights of way. The case, however, broadened out into a determination of the entire question.

The complainants said they had paid nominal rentals for sites for years, made permanent improvements on the theory that this treatment would be continued, that recently very considerable increased rentals were being demanded, and that the method of determining the lease out that the elevators really acted as agents of the railroads because if they did not supply this service the railroads would have to do so.

The railroads defended on the ground that nominal rentals produce discriminatory conditions; that the federal government only has jurisdiction; that the relationship is purely a private one and not subject to state control; that the railroads do not have to lease grounds and so may do so when and upon what terms they please, and that even if the state has jurisdiction it has not been conferred on the commission.

Commissioner Browne says that it is quite evident that elevation of grain into cars is a necessary facility at stations, and if private parties did not undertake it the railroads would have to do so. However, being a service that is in addition to those now furnished, if supplied by the railroads they would be entitled to charge for it. Mr. Browne says that it would be strained reasoning to say that the elevator is the agent of the railroad, because that would invest the entire transaction with common carrier

COUNTY LEVY TO BE SAME

COMMISSIONERS MAKE NO CHANGE FO RLANCASTER.

Of Seventeen Towns Exclusive of Lincoln Eleven Have Raised Levy, Four Are the Same and Two Are Lower.

The county commissioners in their meeting Thursday morning fixed the tax levy for the county at 16.4 cents, the same as last year. Last year the tax was cut from 28.5 cents, the 1921 levy, to 16.4 cents. The commissioners say that it was with difficulty that the levy has been kept down to the level of last year.

The tax levy for the purposes of maintaining the city of Lincoln has not yet been made.

Of the seventeen incorporated towns and villages in the county, exclusive of the city of Lincoln, eleven have raised their levy over last year, four have remained the same and two have been lowered. The increase by the city of Havelock may be declared illegal, said Mr. Morgan, because it has asked that the remainder of the paving and water taxes be absorbed into and paid out of the general fund. It has asked $2,500 for paving districts No. 4 and No. 5, for paving district No. 6, $3,00, and for paving district No. 8 they have asked that $1,500 be absorbed and paid by the general fund. In addition to this it asks $1,800 for sewer and water extension. This demand is thought to be unjust because it would make taxpayers on the other side of town and in many cases living on unpaved streets, pay for the paving that has benefited only a few property holders.

The tax levies per $100 valuation for the towns in the country exclusive of the city of Lincoln are as follows:

MUST QUIT SPILLING DIRT

Commissioner of Streets Cowgill Calls Attention to Law in Regard to Paved Stretches.

An ultimatum was issued Thursday by the Street Commissioner Cowgill. Folks must quit spilling dirt and other refuse on the city's pavements. The offenders in general, he says, are subcontractors under paving and building contractors. Their dump wagons are not tight and wherever they go, leave a trail of crime. For the law says that a wagon shall not spill dirt, material or refuse upon the paved stretches. Commissioner Cowgill says conditions are horrible on one or two streets.

"As head of the department," he said, "I cannot afford to allow conditions such as now exist on Sewell street, from Seventeenth to Twenty-second and on Twentieth, Sumner to Sewell. Haulers must stop spilling dirt and refuse or go to court."

EXPLOSION OF TRUCK TANK

A. G. MILLER HURT WHEN ACCIDENT HAPPENED.

Burned About Legs and Body When Explosion Followed an Attempt to Solder Leak in Tank.

A. G. Miller, forty-three years old, narrowly escaped serious injury at 2 p. m. Thursday from the terrific explosion of the tank of a oil truck upon which he was working. He soldering the tank which must have contained a small amount of gasoline. He was burned about the legs and front of his body. Windows of surrounding buildings were shattered.

The tank was torn apart. The report was heard for blocks away. The accident occurred outside near the Shaw and Way boiler works. 1045 Q. Dr W. H. Slattery arrived on the scene and attended Mr Miller. The doctor is of the opinion that Miller miraculously escaped fatal injuries. The tank is made of heavy metal and was ripped up the middle. The tank cylindrical in shape about twelve feet long and three feet in diameter

MAY TIE UP STATE FUNDS

FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES TO ENJOIN AUDITOR.

Test Use of Fire Marshal's Funds for Labor Department—No Salaries From Revolving Fund.

State Auditor Marsh has decided to pay split salary claims of Governor Bryan's code employes in accordance with an opinion from the attorney general, but he has been informed that fire insurance companies propose to file an injunction suit to prevent the payment of $80 a month to Deputy Secretary L. B. Frye of the department of labor out of funds derived from taxation for the support of the state fire marshal's office.

The fire marshal's office under the code law is under the department of trade and commerce, a department that also has insurance and banking business to look after. The governor has made the deputy secretary of labor fire marshal. Claims are on file with the auditor to pay the deputy secretary of labor $250 a month. Of this $80 is a claim against the fire marshal's salary and wage fund and $170 is to come from the wage fund of the department of labor. This plan was evolved for the purpose of providing sufficient salary for the secretary of the department of labor, the legislature having made no appropriation for the salaries of any of the secretaries of the six code departments.

The attorney general has decided that split salaries can be thus paid if the pay is in fair proportion to the work performed by the claimants for the two or more departments or bureaus. The code law provides that funds of one department shall not be used for another department. If the labor is really performed in proportion to the pay the attorney general says this plan is legal.

The attorney general did not pass upon the right of the governor to use funds of the fire marshall for any other department, the marshall's fund being a special one created by law and derived from a tax upon insurance companies and under the original law cannot be used for any other purpose except for support of the fire marshall's office.

C. E. Hartford, recently displaced as state fire marshall by the governor has conferred with Auditor Marsh and is said to be representing the fire insurance companies who propose to file suit to prevent fire marshall's funds from being paid in the form of salary to the head of the labor department. The auditor has been informed that Secretary Frye of the labor department who is now chief of the fire marshall's office has not devoted three hours in all to the fire marshall's work since he was appointed and that his whole time is occupied in hearing and deciding cases under the workman's compensation law.

Auditor Marsh has ruled that the governor cannot be allowed to use the revolving fund of the state purchasing agent to pay salaries of Purchasing Agent J. R Farris and his assistants. Salary claims on file anmount to $435 a month against the revolving fund. The attorney general has given no opinion on this subject Because the wage fund for the finance department is short, there being no appropriation for Secretary George E Hall's pay, it was proposed to pay all salaries of the purchasing agent out of the revolving fund The purchasing agent is a part of the finance department

K C Knudson is to be paid by the auditor the full amount of his salary claim, $333.33 a month $150 out of the insurance bureau wages $100 out of the banking bureau wage fund and $83 out of the guaranty fund commission fund.

BALDWIN EXPRESSES HOPES FOR ACCORD

Stresses Need For Prompt Action By Entente For Division of Spoils.

MAY BRING FRENCH IN LINE

Believes It Can Be Done Thru Publicity.

NO THREAT OF SEPARATE MOVE

British Said to Have Declared That Mark and Budget Are Important Factors in Guarantees.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Failing to announce an expected break with France and Belgium over reparations, Premier Baldwin in commons and Marquis Curzon in lords, delivered today identic statements that expressed a hope that unity of the entente that won the war may yet be possible in the division of the spoils.

But the British statesmen stressed for needed prompt action and declared that having failed to reach agreement with her allies on reparations, Britain proposes to publish recent correspondence and thus bring world pressure to bear upon France and Belgium.

With permission of the allies, Baldwin proposed to tell commons of the recent interchange of notes on reparations, but he made no threat of separate action.

"We are still hopeful of securing allied unity," the prime minister declared, while a crowded house that had expected to hear of a rupture of the entente, cheered.

While Baldwin was urging that discussion which would lead to a final conference be started at once, Curzon was warning the lords that Europe is sinking rapidly towards ruin and that there might not be time to wait while statesmen argued.

There is no prospect of a joint reply at present, however, nor of an early settlement of the Ruhr dispute, Baldwin said, intimating refusals of France and Belgium on this point had been definite.

Curzon remarked in lords that the continental allies had even neglected to refer to the draft of a proposed joint note to Germany sent them last week.

In commons Baldwin gave for the first time an outline of the contents of the British proposal for a joint allied reply to Germany—the proposal to which France and Belgium failed to agree. According to the premier, the note:

1—Pointed out that guarantees Germany offered must depend largely upon factors not mentioned in the latest Cuno memorandum, such as stabilization of the mark and balancing the German budget.

2—Declared no guarantees could be considered effective unless provision was made for some sort of international control.

3—Advised Germany to withdraw immediately ordinance fomenting passive resistance in the Ruhr and to disavow violence and sabotage.

Baldwin promised that should a crisis arise in allied relations he would not hesitate to convoke parliament, which adjourns today.

GIRL BADLY CUT IN CRASH

Rose Baker, 2431 E, Injured in Car Accident—Gas Lost From Punctured Tank.

Miss Rose Baker, 2431 E, suffered a bad cut over the left eye, across the nose and on her cheek when an auto in which she was riding collided with another car which was backing from the curb at 329 South Eleventh at 5 p. m. Wednesday. Twenty stitches were taken in the wound by Dr. W. H. Slattery, who attended the victim.

The auto which Miss Baker was riding was being driven by D. S. Taylor, 1724 North Twenty-seventh, according to the police report. The auto backing from the curb was driven by Lawrence Clymer, Route No. 3. The gasoline tank of his auto was punctured and over ten gallons of gasoline ran out into the street. Both autos were damaged. The windshield of the Taylor auto was broken. Miss Baker was attended by Dr. W. H. Slattery.

HEAT AND COLD IN A DAY

Range of Temperature Unusual for August Shown on the Thursday Weather Report.

Thursday morning's weather report showed unusual temperature ranges for Wednesday. Hastings reported a range of 45 degrees, from 100 in the middle of the day to 55 late at night. At Lincoln the range was less because the high temperature for the day was only 79 degrees. That showed a range of high temperatures of 30 degrees in a distance of 100 miles. At Fairmont the mercury went up to 97, making a range of 27 degrees when compared with Lincoln of more than half a degree per mile of distance. High temperatures prevailed between Fairmont and Red Cloud, both showing 97, with the high mark at Hastings.

FRENCH FRANC DROPS LOW

New Record of 17.47, in Anticipation of Definite Break With England.

PARIS, Aug. 2—In anticipation of a definite break with England over reparations as a result of Premier Baldwin's statement in commons, the French franc went tumbling to the lowest levels it has touched since the war.

The British pound, normally twenty-four francs, opened at 79.70. Quoted in American dollars, the franc at 17.47 made a new lo wrecord. The franc was even weaker in comparison with Italian lire, the opening quotations being 75.50 per 100 lire.

STATES WILL FOLLOW SUIT

NEBRASKA HOG SHIPPERS TO PROFIT BY DECISION.

Reduction in Minimum Weight for Shipments Made by Federal Commission to Be Adopted by States.

Railway Commissioner Browne said Thursday that the ten states in which the raising of porkers for market is a big industry—which includes Nebraska—will undoubtedly follow the lead of the interstate commerce commission in reducing the minimum weight of hogs shipped in carload lots from 17,000 to 16,500 pounds.

The decision of the interstate commerce commission was in fact arrived at in conference with Mr. Browne and the representatives of two other states on the committee named to confer with the federal body. They will recommend that this order which applies to interstate shipments, be movements.

The 16,500 pounds contemplates the use of the standard car, which is 36 feet 7 inches in length, but the weight applies to all smaller ones. The minimum weight for cars over 43 feet in length in 20,400, and double deckers range from 23,000 to 26,850.

Seventy per cent of the Nebraska hogs that go to the river markets will not be affected by the change, but the other 30 per cent will gain by a reduction in the rate because they can load higher than now.

TELLS GOVERNOR ABOUT IT

Interstate Commerce Commission Sends Him Valuation of Union Pacific Railroad.

Governor Bryan's supply of reading matter was materially added to Thursday when he received from Maurice M. Jones, supervising engineer of the interstate commerce commission blue print copies of the valuation of the Union Pacific railroad. The documents form a big book eight inches thick.

This valuation was undertaken under the LaFollette act of years ago. As made by the commission engineers the reproduction new value of the railroad property in Nebraska excluding all lands owned is $70,023,000. It is in 79 per cent condition, which gives it a depreciated value of $47,496,000. In 1911 the state railway commission made a valuation of $6 millions reproduction new and 74 millions depreciated. It found the value of its lands to be over 11 millions.

The state valuation is not so thoro as that of the federal engineers, and the document they filed lists every bit of physical property and puts a value upon each. The road 2,125 miles of track in the state.

CLASH OVER ALASKA DUE

DEVELOPMENT AND CONSERVATION ARE THE TROUBLES.

Congress to Be Called Upon to Decide Best Policy, Following Presidential Visit to North.

By Lawrence Martin.

ON TOUR WITH PRESIDENT HARDING, (By mail)—President Harding's Alaskan trip will bring to a climax the clash between the old and the new ideas of national conservation.

A hard-fought struggle in congress and before the country will result, with a good deal of consequent confusion in the public mind regarding the issues.

The day has come, however, when the American people will be called on to decide whether they want to—

1—Adhere to a policy of conservation which called for holding natural resources untouched and undeveloped as a means of preserving them for future generations, or,

2—Exchange that policy for one of gradual and closely restricted development of the natural resources, that will gradually unlock, without destroying the great buried and growing mineral and timber and water power resources of the west and of Alaska.

When the conservationists, after a hard fight, got their doctrine of saving the nation's resources for the nation's future adopted as the national idea, they put it over good and strong. So well "sold" is the country on this idea of conservation that any attempt to change the policy now will be met with the strongest opposition.

It is safe to predict that not for years will a complete change be made. That is, the conservationists did their work so thoroly that they have undoubtedly saved to the American people billions of dollars worth of natural resources that might ere this have been stowed away behind the fences of big interests otherwise.

Think Change Essential.

President Harding and Secretaries Hoover, Wallace and Work, studying the problem of Alaskan development, are convinced that a change in the conservation policy is essential so far as Alaska is concerned if that vast territory is to be made what it is capable of becoming. Not one of them, however, favors letting down the bars so that there will be a grand grab of Alaskan resources.

Hoover, for instance, is in favor of substituting the word development for conservation. He wants the government to keep everything under its control as now, but to make it attractive for capital to enter the Alaskan field. The results, as Hoover pictures them, will be a tremendous growth for the territory, because the minute existing industries expand to the point of bringing more people the agriculture and lumber and coal mining of Alaska will have to expand to keep pace with the country's domestic needs, to say nothing of export.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace told Juneau business men he was about ready to recommend modification of the five year clause in timber leases, for the purpose of making it more attractive for capital to enter the territory. Nowadays the government will lease timber land to a pulp mill, say, for thirty years, with a guarantee of a renewal of the lease at the end of that time.

For the first five years of that lease, the price to be paid the government for pulp wood is nominal, or about 60 cents a cord. The government, however, reserves the right to increase the price at the end of every five year period. The result is uncertainty on the part of the mill owners who did not know whether they will be able to make a profit or will lose. The theory of the law is of course that profits should be limited.

Wallace, however, after a study of the situation on the ground, is convinced that profits can be hit thru taxation if they get too big, and that in the meantime, the necessary hting is for Alaska ot get some pulp mills going and thus stimulate the territory's business. He therefore is inclined to favor amendment of the law to provide that the price shall be changed once every twenty years, instead of every five yaers. This would remove the existing uncertainty.

These are features of the conservation-development fight that will be dwelt on when the party returns and recommendations are made to congress concerning Alaska, as they undoubtedly will be.

PYTHIAN PROJECTS AFOOT

Grand Lodge Considering State Camp, Headquarters, Chautauqua and Loan Fund.

Several recommendations to be presented the Knights of Pythias grand lodge were worked out at York this week by the committee appointed in the spring for that purpose, and will be taken up at the state meeting next May at Fremont. The one considered for most immediate action, according to J. M. Jones, member of the committee, is for the purchase of a state camp site which might serve as headquarters for the grand lodge. The purchase of a site that would be suitable also for a state home, in case this should be authorized, will be recommended. The idea had its inception in the Pythian camp at York, where the committee members and their wives camped during the three days' session.

It will be tentatively recommended that two weeks' chautauqua in connection with the annual state meeting be arranged at the camp ground, for the benefit of all Nebraska Pythians and their families.

Among the other propositions considered were the establishment of a state Pythian paper, and a loan fund to aid deserving young people in completing their education. All these are to be acted on by the grand lodge. Members of the committee in attendance were:

W. L. Kiewi k Crawford grand chancellor.
J. R. LaChapelle, Ashland
J. M. Jones, Lincoln
W. M. Riddell, Hickman
William G. Scudder, Central City.

New Hopes.

Helen and Milton Wald were not satisfied. Their home seemed to be running smoothly enough and affairs at the office for both of them were O. K., but there was something lacking and each seemed to feel it keenly. Helen tried in vain to get Milton to express his opinion on the subject and at times Milton endeavored to find out why Helen looked so bored and tired of life.

"It's funny we don't seem to be as happy as we should," said Milton one evening as they sat beside the living room table. "We never had so much money in our lives and yet we both seem rather tired of everything. What's the matter with us Helen, are we natural born pessimists?"

"I guess we don't appreciate our luck," laughed Helen.

"I know what it is!" suddenly exclaimed the young husband. "We're tired of this old flat. We have to travel too far to get to Washington Heights. Let's move down to the village, get a studio apartment and furnish it up with antiques."

"And spend all our hard earned money"

"Well, what's the use of the fifty-fifty plan if we can't have some of the things we want in life?"

"I'd rather have a cottage up-state and a buzz wagon."

"We'd be digging in the garden all Sunday and every holiday and look like a couple of tramps."

"But we'd be healthy, and look brown and robust," declared Helen. "This apartment house life doesn't appeal to me at all and I don't see where a Greenwich Village studio would better matters. Then we'd spend all our money going to shows and dining out."

"If we buy a cottage we'll spend all our money on seeds and fertilizers."

"Well, if we stay here we'll have to pay a heavy doctor's bill."

"Then, it's up to us to get out, somewhere," concluded Milton, "but the hitch seems to be where to go; you want a cottage and I want a studio, where's the compromise? You go up and buy your cottage and I'll get a studio; then I'll spend the week-ends with you and you can stay in my studio week days."

"Silly let's talk sense. We ought to move. We're making more money and we're entitled to spend more. I don't think we really want a cottage or a studio, what we need is another apartment, a light six-room one nearer our offices."

"Agreed." Milton snapped her up. "That's the compromise for you. I knew we'd come to it if we talked long enough. Presto with your rambler rose cottage and presto with your Greenwich Village studio; we'll stick to the conventional and pay the landlord twice as much as we are now paying. Then we'll invite the Brightons over to dinner and show off a bit. That's the ticket."

"Oh, Milton, you always make light of everything. Can't you see that's the only thing for us to do? We can't go on living in a little cheap flat like this when we are both earning so much money and owe it to ourselves to live better."

"It's settled, don't talk anything more about it. Go out and find your apartment and I'll go you on half the rent."

Helen picked up her novel with a look of satisfaction while Milton lighted a cigaret and began to read the evening paper.

It was settled. They were prosperous and coming up in the world.

WEEK WAS COOL AND MOIST

Weather Bureau Reports Show That Rain Was Generally Sufficient.

Plenty of showers, ample sunshine and cool weather marked the past week in Nebraska, according to a report sent out by the United States weather bureau. Rainfall in the southwestern and some northern counties exceeded one inch, and in much of the state more than half an inch was reported, but in many central counties, there was less than a tenth of an inch fell. Harvesting made good progress in western and northern counties, while stacking and threshing progressed in the eastern region. Winter wheat yields are small, and the grain is shrunken and light in weight. Rust and other damaging conditions have been so prevalent in some western and northern counties that many fields will not be harvested at all. Oats did better, but the crop is not as large as was expected. Corn has grown well, but in counties other than the southwestern, it needs rain, and is backward. Pastures, tho dry, are fair in places. The second cutting of alfalfa is well advanced, and the prairie hay crop is good. Potatoes and sugar beets are growing nicely.

Chemist Discovers InstantCorn Killer

Stops Pain at Once.

The long sought instant corn killer has been discovered by H. C. Haist, a widely known Kansas City chemist.

Within five minutes after applying this remarkable discovery, which is called Presto Corn Killer, you can remove the callous and have instant and amazing relief.

With Presto you can simply erase your corns like you would a mistake in writing. Why suffer corn tortures when Presto makes it so easy to be rid of them?

For only a few cents you can get a bottle of Presto Corn Killer at any drug store on the guarantee that it will kill your corns and stop the pain in thirty seconds, or money back. Advertisement.

RED FLANNEL IS SUGGESTED

HOSTS OF "SURE CURES" POUR IN ON HARDING.

Elderberry Tea and Onion Syrup as Well as Patent Medicines Are Recommended for Presidential Use.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2—Not all the letters of sympathy which come to the sick room of President Harding are formal notes from kings and princes or captains of industry

And not all of them are confined to mere expression of hope that the executive will soon be back to health.

Literally scores of them are from the "people" and a large proportion of these offer the best they have to help the president in his fight.

Impractical as are some of these offers of advice and suggested cures each one is appreciated for the spirit in which it is sent.

Old grandmothers, for instance, have come forward with the red flannel cure of days gone by.

Elderberry tea has been suggested by numbers as a means of quickly relieving the president of his affliction.

Onion syrup is still more popular.

And maybe half of the letters telling the president's associates how Mr. Harding's illness may be ended, recite experiences with pills and patent medicines—each writer convinced that the particular medicine he used is the sure cure for the nation's executive.

The letters present an interesting study in the methods of using red flannel. Most agree that the flannel should be cut in strips—and it must be red, of course—but they vary greatly as to the best place for application. Some add that the flannel should be warmed and then moistened with turpentine and sweet oil and placed over the chest—a not too comfortable sounding cure, at least for a president.

EIGHTY-EIGHT-YEAR-OLD IS FATHER

Eighty-eight years old, father of a bouncing baby girl and of forty-five other children, is the record of Romulu Delso, a Mexican resident of Stanton, Cal. When Delso was seventy-nine, his wife presented him with twins. He has been married four times. This photograph shows him with five of his forty-six children, the others bein scattered all over the United States.

OFFERED CASH TO MAYOR.

FAIRPORT, O., Aug. 2.—Albert Schriegel, awaiting trial behind the bars of Lake county jail, learned about women from the Fairport mayor and justice of the peace. Schriegel is charged with offering to "buy" protection for a gambling house from Mayor Amy Kaukonen. Justice of the Peace Mabel Walters set his bail at $500, but Schriegel couldn't make the raise.

Reservations are now being made on two special trains that will carry Nebraska legion members to the national convention at San Francisco in October. One of these trains will leave Omaha on the Union Pacific, making stops thru Nebraska, while the other will leave on the Burlington at Nebraska City, also stopping en route to pick up members.

Investigation of the physical condition of ex-service men in Nebraska penal institutions is being conducted by the Nebraska American Legion officials, headed by Si Wheeler of Omaha.

APPROVE COLOR LINE STAND

French Newspapers Endorse Threatened Reprisals Against Americans Who Object to Mingling.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—The French press today expressed general approval of the foreign office statement threatening reprisals against American tourists who express themselves against negroes and object to close association sometimes occasioned by the lack of a color line here.

La Liberte relates how recently an American in a boulevard cafe objected to the presence of a negro. The latter, an engineer from Martinique, threw the American out of the cafe so violently that the latter struck his head against a lamp post and had to be treated at a drug store.

"Everybody will agree the lesson was merited," says La Liberte.

DONAHEY TO LEAVE, TOO

Ohio Governor Declares He Will Not Stay in Canada If Lifer Servants Are Deported.

COBOCONK, Ont., Aug. 2.—"If they go, I go," Gov. Vic Donahey of Ohio declared today when informed that Canadian authorities were considering the advisability of deporting his chauffeur, and his cook, "lifers" convicted of murder, who accompanied him on a vacation trip.

Attempts of his political opponents to embarrass him, the governor said, are responsible for advices reaching here that the life term convicts were undesirable visitors.

"I have seen across my desk at the executive mansion men more dangerous to society than these two lifers," Donahey said.

Donahey, his sons, Warden Thomas his sons and Earl Jennings and C. Zipriani, the convicts came here for the governor's vacation.

LEGION TO COLLECT NAMES

Also Preparing to Send Men to National Convention.

Census blanks have been sent to all the Nebraska legion posts upon which to report the names of all world war veterans residing in Nebraska. These will be compiled by counties and turned over to the secretary of state, who will publish a roster of all war veterans early this fall. The legion will cooperate with the state officials

VILLA DEATH DUE TO PLOT

REPORT MADE BY INVESTIGATION COMMITTEE.

States Information on Assassination Difficult to Secure Since Inhabitants of Parrall Are Cowed With Fear.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 2.—Gen. Francisco Villa was assassinated as the result of a political plot, according to a report of a commission of the chamber of deputies sent to Parral to investigate the incident.

The commission does not name the parties responsible. The report stated the investigators had difficulty in securing information because inhabitants of Parral appeared to be cowed with fear and refused to talk. Several military officers showed marked hostility to the commission.

The report states that pursuit of the slayers was not ordered by local authorities until three-quarters of an hour after the ambush.

A Program of Excitement and Laughter Opens at the Rialto Today.

Thomas H. Ince's mystery-comedy, sure fire, fast and funny, "A Man Of Action" will be the feature attraction this weekend starting matinee today. Laughs and thrills and love interest have been closely interwoven in this clever original tale that comes from the pen of Bradley King. The story of a silk stocking youth who was galvanized into life after twenty-four hours of amazing adventures has been told with some of the cleverest comedy situations ever screened. "The Big Show" is a new comedy that will fairly convulse you with laughter; News Topics, and the added attraction "The Follie Girls" presented by a bevy of Lincoln beauties rounds out with Jean L. Schaefer's Symphony Players two hours of real enjoyment.

Fascinating, Thrilling and Exciting Is "The Law of the Lawless" at the Colonial This Week.

An untamed Tartar beauty of whirlwind passions, a "devil in pantaloons" her tribe called her, quick as a wildcat to fight, and as powerful. This was the human tempest a fearless gypsy vagabond captured and tamed and won. You'll thrill to this astonishing romance of a brand new kind. And you'll want to see more of it, absolutely! Other features include comedy and news topics and "The Adventures of Tarzan."

Terrific Jungle Fire in "The Adventures of Tarzan" at the Colonial.

"Flames of Hate" the fifth chapter of "The Adventures of Tarzon" which will appear at the Colonial this weekend as an extra attraction is a breathtaking episode that will hold you spellbound with amazement.

Your Problems
BY MARY GORDON

Dear Mary Gordon: I am a constant reader of your column. And would like to add a few lines in answer to the letter by Peony. By all means do not tell your husband you love another man. Did you ever think of your marriage vows. "For better or for Worse" not only that suppose you could leave your present husband and marry the one you love. As long as your man and father of your two nice children is living you are comitting adultery according to Gods Laws.

Having had experience I ask you above all not to tell your Husband you are in love with another, you will crush his heart and he will then loose all interest in life. What is there to live for when the one you love better than your own life tells you. He loves another beter than you? Do you know if you ruin your Husbands life by telling him you love a nother when trouble comes home to you it will be measured in your own bushel measure? I am afraid you do not appreciate your good home, and steady husband. If the man you love could be any better to you and be a steady worker like your husband I'd be surprised. Did you ever think that the other man could marry you then in later years fall for some one, besides you, as you have done with your husband, and leave you empty handed with a crushed heart? Please think it over especially your "honeymoon" think of the vows you have each made to each other. How you would be true "always" its a long time isnt it? your husband evidentely has given you no cause to trun your love elsewhere and you knew you were sinning when you allowed your mind to follow the other man. Did you not? Your love is still in your heart for your husband and children you need to rekindle it you can by the help of our Heavenly Father, and putting this other man out of your mind.

I hear you say "I can't." Don't be weak you have the will power if you will only use it. You have allowed sin to darken your heart by thinking of another man. That has smothered the love for your Husband, but the love is still in your heart as it was years ago. I will close by asking you again Please never tell your husband you love another it may be a passing infatuation, you will be rewarded in the end. And remember the Command. "Do unto others as ye would that they should do unto you." Would you ever be happy if you cared only for your husband and thought he loved you only. Then he would tell you he loved another? Think it over. My heart has been peirced by that kind of a blow. And I know what your husband would suffer.—A Childless Woman.

A. Your view of marriage is the same as mine, "til death do us part." Your advice is good.

Dear Mary Gordon: Which is the correct way, should a man or woman lead the way into church and who, should find the seat? If a man's wife and her friend were walking should the man be in the middle or how should they be standing?—Dotty.

A. If there is no usher, the man finds the seat. If there is an usher, the lady follows the usher and the man comes behind.

The man should not walk between the women, but should take the outside of the walk.

Perplexed: If your husband sold the home and household goods while you were still his wife, he could not give title to them and the buyer purchased them at his own risk. You could go to court and recover your share of them.

If, however, a property settlement was made when the divorce was granted, you have now no recourse.

Anxious to Know: Common courtesy demands that you speak to the young man when you meet him.

Why not invite a group of young people to your home or plan a picnic, taking along a chaperon?

Learn not to depend on others for your amusement, however, but endeavor to find an interesting evening every once in a while with a really good book.

Jasamine: Perfect cleanliness, drinking lots of water and attention to diet should rid your face of blackheads. Use an astringent such as witch hazel or ... to help close the pores.

... water should help bring out the ... your hair ... will help too. Some ... preparations on the market are also good.

... bobbed hair ...

I am a young man twenty years old and good looking and a fair wrestler, and have lot of friends, but I have two extra good ones. I go with a beautiful girl nineteen and we have lovely times together, we are engaged to be married next Christmas, I will be twenty-one and she will be twenty, it seems as if we cannot live without each other, we are just like sister and brother our parents want us to get married.

Some evenings we take a walk down to the spring and go fishing, sometimes to the show and have a fine time, neither of us dance, and my father has a nice ranch and he said if we did get married he would give it us, oh how many lively evenings have we spent together and our love for each other can never die, now don't you think that God made me for her and her for me? and do you think we are to young to get married?

(2) My appinion of D. D. letter, I just don't agree with her on kissing, Do you?

She wrote, kissing between two persons who are not to become man and wife is disloyal, I do not and in you answer you do not either, Mary, Now the girl I go with is a fine one, not believing in dancing and not a flapper and we both believe in kissing to a certain extent.

(3) How old are you, Mary Gordon. Please answer all (1), (2) (3) in long answers.—A XXXX Sweetheart.

A. 1. No, you are not too young to be married. I hope you will both always feel that you were made for each other and that you will be very happy.

2. I do not think an engagement is necessary to make a kiss harmless.

3. Don't you know you should never ask a lady her age?

Good Manners.

Anyone who receives a wedding invitation may send the bride a present, tho it isn't absolutely necessary.

It should be the prettiest and most useful article within the giver's means. Checks and gold money are good form, tho some people object to them as gifts.

Two months before the wedding is not too soon for close friends to send presents.

BOUGHT A LAWSUIT INSTEAD

Council Bluffs Bank Purchased Mortgage But Court Says It Is Null and Void.

The Council Bluffs Savings bank, some time ago bought from W. A. Thomas of Omaha a mortgage for $4500 on some Sarpy county land. The title attorney who looked over the abstract said the mortgage was a safe buy, and the abstractor presented a clean sheet. Nevertheless the district court of Sarpy county has declared the mortgage to be null and void.

The land upon which the mortgage rested was originally the property of Mrs. Julianne Boob, and was still hers when she married Charles Pope. She was advanced in years, and back in 1915 a guardian was named for her on the ground that she was mentally-incompetent. It was charged in the case that later Herman G. Boesche made a series of fraudulent misrepresentations to the guardian and the court and also to the woman, with the result that he emerged with a deed for the land, upon which the mortgage was then executed.

The representations to the guardian were quickly discovered to be untrue and the dismissal of the guardianship proceedings, which Boesche had secured, was set aside. It was during the time between the dismissal and the reinstatement of this proceeding that the mortgage was executed and the title passed upon. The abstractor did not make any return of the guardianship proceedings but the court says that the ward of the state cannot suffer because of what Boesche did and holding that the bank was charged with knowledge of the guardianship proceedings and that these were subject to further action of the court, it must lose.

REBUILD DEVASTATED TEMPLE.

PARIS, (By Mail).—The first important church to be entirely rebuilt in the devastated area of France has just been dedicated. It is the Protestant Temple, erected on the site of the Protestant church at Rheims which was destroyed by the incendiary bombardment of September, 1914.

PREDICTS ANTHRACITE COKE.

NEW YORK, (By Mail).—A fuel engineer of a great chemical corporation predicts that a coke will soon be put on the market with all the qualities of anthracite coal including its smokelessness at less than half ... Low temperature distillation ... is bringing this about, he says.

STIFFENING OIL FIGURES

Greater Draft on the California Field Will Cause an Increase in Prices.

Ashley Dewitt, formerly of Lincoln, writing to the Journal from Lomita, Cal., under date of July 29, says "For your information I will say that one of the greatest oil fields the state of California has known has been discovered in the past three days. I won't mention any names or places beyond the fact that it is in Los Angeles county, which is now producing sufficient oil to supply the nation. You people in Lincoln cannot possible realize what such a situation as this means."

Mr. Dewitt encloses a clipping from a Long Beach newspaper which makes the following statement:

"Southern California could take care of the oil needs of the United States for six months if a general shutdown is ordered in the mid-continent fields.

"But transportation of the 50,000,000 barrels a month required by the country is impossible without a price increase which would automatically bring back the competition of the mid-continent.

"Stimulation of production and activity in the Southern California fields for some time and an ultimate increase in price at the well and cost to the consumer is the forecast of men in touch with the situation if the shut down become effective."

CHICAGO, Aug 2.—Grain prices were unchanged to fractionally higher at the opening on the Chicago board of trade today.

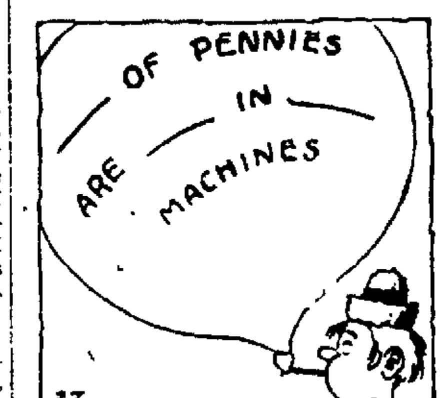

Wheat prices suffered a slump induced by Liverpool's failure to respond to yesterday's advance togethre with liberal receipts. Advices from the Canadian northwest declared cool weather continued. Receipts, 685 cars.

Corn was higher with a good class of local buying based on continued high temperatures in the southwest. Receipts, 170 cars.

Lacking features oats was higher with other grains. Receipts, 75 cars.

Provisions were lower.

The Daily Puzzlette

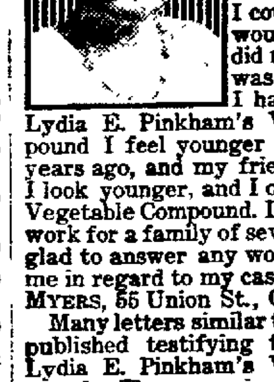

Three words are missing above. They are spelled with the same four letters. Can you solve the sentence? The answer will be given tomorrow.

Answer to yesterday's puzzle: Key plus Ear, plus Bat, plus Sill, minus Year, minus Bill equals KEATS.

CHANGE OF LIFE LOSES TERRORS

For Women Who Rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Greenville, Pa.—"I took your medicine through the Change of Life and it did wonders for me. I was down in bed when I started to take it and weighed 95 pounds. I had hot flashes and was so nervous and weak that everything would get black and I could not see. I would sit and cry and did not know what I was crying for. Since I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel younger than I did ten years ago, and my friends all tell me I look younger, and I owe it all to the Vegetable Compound. I do all my housework for a family of seven now. I will be glad to answer any woman who writes me in regard to my case."—Mrs. JOHN MYERS, 55 Union St., Greenville, Pa.

Many letters similar to this have been published testifying to the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They are sincere expressions from women who describe as best they can their feelings before and after taking this well-known medicine.

Many times they state in their letters their willingness to answer women who write them. It is an offer dictated by gratitude and a desire to help others.

INDICATIONS POINT TO GOOD CORN CROP

Wheat Yields Disappointing and Spring Grain Slightly Below Expectation, According to Report.

Corn prospects are good, wheat yields disappointing and spring grain slightly below expectation in places according to a report issued by the Division of Crop and Live Stock Estimates. Black stem rust is quite general thruout western and northern Nebraska.

With a very few exceptions, the corn prospects are good thruout the state. Most of the crop has tasseled out and with sufficient rain during the next three weeks the crop will be large. While some of the fields are quite weedy and a certain percentage of the crop quite late, the average condition is satisfactory.

The winter wheat crop which has been so uncertain since it was planted finally ended in a disappointment with low yields and much badly shrunken grain. Two weeks before harvest the crop appeared very good and had sufficient straw for twice the yield that is being obtained.

While black stem rust has done serious damage thruout the western half and northern Nebraska, this is not the only factor. There is a trace of black stem rust in the southeastern quarter, but still the yields are low due to shrunken grain and partly filled heads. One of the causes advanced was the sudden change from cool, wet weather to dry weather and high temperatures. Due to the long period of wet weather wheat was naturally shallow rooted. The rains packed the ground and after ceasing dried out rapidly and there was not sufficient moisture to meet the demands of the heavy straw and foliage and naturally the wheat did not fill properly.

The spring grain crops were reduced somewhat also. Spring wheat in western Nebraska which was so promising was severely injured by black stem rust. Oats are good in southern Nebraska but the crop is not normal in northeastern Nebraska.

The harvest of wild hay is on and yields very satisfactory. The second crop of alfalfa has been cut and was fairly good. Other tame hay made good yields. Considerable sudan grass was planted. There is a very marked increase in acreage of sweet clover used mostly for pastures. Pastures are in good condition for this date but more moisture would be beneficial.

The early Kearney potato crop is ready for harvest but the movement has been light to date. The late commercial crop is promising. Cantaloupe growing in Scottsbluff county seems to be a successful venture, the apple crop is not up to previous expectations. Sugar beets are fairly good but cannot recover from the serious injury from frost last spring which resulted in thin stands.

DISCUSSING THE FIFTH CLAUSE

Is or is not a man justified in cutting his wife off in case of her remarriage?

There are certainly two sides to the question. Think about it and write your ideas to The Journal. Confine your letter to 200 words or less. Your name will not be published if you would rather not, but must be given to us so that we know the letter is genuine. The real name of prize winners must be published.

Twenty dollars will be given in prizes for the best letters, $10 for the first prize, $5 for the second and $1 each for the next five selected.

Address your letter to the Widow's Lawyer,
Care State Journal.

Indeed, the Hon. Mr. Beanbloom was altogether in the wrong by placing such a clause in his will, for this reason: The money was as much hers as his since she worked the same as he. Having worked behind the counter of the hardware store, (beside doing her housework) and working evenings with him until "they" had completed their toy, she was entitled to half of the income. Therefore, he had no right to keep it from her.

Such a clause in the will gives her no more than tho her name was not mentioned in the will, for as long as she lived there was a chance that she might some day remarry, there being no way of knowing that she would not marry again, until her death. So far as the will was concerned, she may as well have died when he did. She would have derived as much benefit from the money. And in any case I think she ought by all means to have had all at his death.

I do not say this because I am a woman, but "justice is justice."
A CONSTANT READER.

It is entirely wrong for the husband to have control of the joint estate so he can cut the wife off entirely, for she helps work, earn, make and keep the home and raise the children. No man cares to leave money for his widow to spend on some other man, but neither does a woman care to leave money for her widower to spend on some other woman but, as yet, no woman has had the right to will their joint property away from the husband whether he remarries or not, as the law calmly allows him to go on with the business, remarry, have other children and will the property, the first wife helped earn, to family No. 2, or cut them off too, just as he pleases. I think the law should be, in case of the death of either husband or wife, the estate, be it big or little, should have to be divided, say, one-third to the widow or widower and two-thirds to the children, then if either remarried they would not be wronging the departed partner or their children.
M. E. L., Eagle.

Is a man justified in recalling a wife's fortune because she remarries?

Most decidedly, no. He is not, and furthermore, I don't think the wife needed to submit to such a will.

She was not only his wife but his business partner and helped to earn the money and I think could have claimed the half of it as her legal right outside of the relationship of husband and wife.

I knew a similar case in Illinois where the husband made a will devising so much to his widow in case she did not remarry, should she do so she would forfeit all interest in the estate.

The widow did not try to break the will, but claimed her widow's rights, as they had no children, she took the bulk of the estate. What was left was divided according to the will.

I did not think that in this enlightened country a man could do such a dastardly deed, or that with the rights accorded to women they would tamely submit to such injustice.

The wife should have fought for her rights.

The husband had forfeited his right to sentimental respect and esteem.
ELSIE POWELL, Friend, Neb.

Is or is not a man justified in cutting his wife off in case of her remarriage? It is my strong conviction that a man has no right or reason to cut his wife off from her inheritance from him, should she remarry. In the first place, if she is his wife for many years and has helped him in every way possible, which most women do, the money is as much hers as his anyway and after he dies, she is qualified to use it just as well as qualified to help make it in the first place, and it should be given her to use as she sees fit. It would be virtually saying to a woman, to place the above fifth clause in a man's will, that she shall remain single the rest of her life just because the Lord sees fit to take that man away from her, and no man has any right, in my opinion, to dictate to his wife what her personal career shall be after he is dead. If she is faithful to him while he is living, then when he dies, his authority over, if he ever had any, ends, in my humble opinion.

Such a clause in a man's will would simply indicate his extremely selfish nature. MRS. R. L. TAYLOR,
Trenton, Neb.

MUST HAVE PROPER LIGHTS

All Autos With Faulty Lights Will Be Stopped and Ordered to Report to Police.

All motor vehicles, with bright or glaring lights or lights that are otherwise faulty, will be stopped by officers, according to a statement made Wednesday afternoon by Chief of Police Johnstone. Police have launched a campaign against the autoists who drive autos without tail lights, one head light or with no lights at all. The autos when stopped will be ordered taken to the nearest garage to have the lights adjusted and put into proper shape. The driver will then be ordered to report to the police station the following day with the auto lights in proper condition.

"Failure of an autoist to report at the police station when so ordered to do so, will mean prosecution in police court," said Chief Johnstone, "and the same will hold for a driver failing to stop his car when hailed by an officer.

MISS CROFT TAKES CHARGE

Has Jurisdiction Over the Child Aid Division of the Humane Society's Work.

Miss Miriam Croft, formerly with the local Red Cross and more recently connected with the social welfare society is now in charge of the child aid division of the humane society with headquarters at the city hall. She assumed her new duties Wednesday.

She has been trained for this sort of working, having studied at the University of Nebraska and the University of Michigan. Child work with the society has grown at a rapid clip. Miss Croft will investigate all cases of alleged cruelty, neglect and lack of proper care.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

W. A. Poynter, Boone county populist, proved to be the winner of nomination for governor. The three fusion conventions wrangled all night over it. The greater part of the first two pages of the evening paper was covered with political news.

The body of Conoah Hanks, the rich farmer who had disappeared from Nebraska City July 13, was found on a sandbar in the Missouri river below Peru.

Lincoln park was a busy place. The management of the Epworth assembly was moving out to the park and a large number of campers had arrived. The two main lectures for the day were "What a Tramp Saw in the Emerald Isle," Rev. Jos. F. Berry, and "Soldiering in Dixie," Rev. Robert McIntyre.

Announcements were received from William M. Johnston, a former university student who graduated in law and his marriage to Miss Mabel Sheen of Billings.

Child-birth

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., BA 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

LLOYD GEORGE TO VISIT U.S.

WANTS TO THANK CANADA FOR ITS SERVICES.

Will Also Become Personally Acquainted With Cities, People and Political System of America.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—David Lloyd George will sail for New York late in September on a tour which will take him into many cities of the United States and Canada.

His purpose, as he expressed it in making his plans known, is to thank Canada for its "magnificent services" to the empire during the war and to become personally acquainted with the United States—its cities, its people, and its political system.

Britain's war time premier—outstanding figure in Europe during the world conflict—will make a number of speeches during the trip and will visit America's national shrines. His first address will be delivered in Montreal, where he will go immediately after his arrival in New York.

He will travel by motor as well as by train, as he wants to get close to the people in the cities and towns thru which he passes and, to use his own words, he desires to visit several of the smaller "main street" communities.

Lloyd George was busy today, sifting thousands of invitations from practically every state in the United States and the provinces of Canada, and arranging his itinerary.

This itinerary tentatively, is as follows—subject to extension or curtailment depending on the time at his disposal, which is still uncertain:

He will start for New York late in September and will leave New York for Montreal the night of the day of his arrival.

In Montreal the first speech of his tour will be made. Thence Lloyd George will go to Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Chicago, Springfield, Ill., Indianapolis, possibly St. Louis and Cleveland and then to Pittsburgh, Washington and Richmond, Va.

From Richmond he will go on a motor trip over the Virginia battle fields and then to Philadelphia, Gettysburg and New York, when he will make a side trip to Scranton, Pa., before his departure for home.

The former premier, discussing his tour, said:

"I desire to make clear that I have only one mission in America, namely to express my appreciation, as prime minister during the war for Canada's magnificent services and sacrifices in behalf of the empire. My other purpose is a trip of self-education with regard to America.

"I am particularly eager to get personally acquainted with your great middle west. I would like to learn something at first hand of your political system and machinery. I want to meet not only your national leaders, but some of the representative men who dominate politics in the states and counties.

"I desire to visit en route two or three of the smaller towns. I hope to have an opportunity to motor say, from Springfield, Ill., to which I am attracted because of its associations with Lincoln, to Indianapolis for the purpose of viewing a typical farm region.

"I am most desirous of visiting Kansas City, from which I have received cordial invitations from the mayor and others and I hope to include it if possible because I consider Kansas City the real heart of America.

"I shall certainly visit Pittsburgh because it is the center of an American community of fellow Welshmen and also Scranton, which I understand has the largest proportional Welsh population of any city in America.

"I have always been most interested as a student in the American Civil war and hence desire to see your battle fields over which Lee, Stonewall Jackson and other brave men fought. I would like to extend the tour further west, even to the Pacific coast but it is doubtful if I will be able to do this."

Lloyd George will be accompanied by his wife and his daughter, Miss Megan Lloyd George and his private secretary, A. J. Sylvester. He will travel from New York thru Canada on a Canadian Pacific private car and thru the United States on a private car subscribed for by American Welshmen whose invitation was extended personally by Secretary of Labor Davis.

Only two set speeches on international topics are planned for the United States, one in Chicago, and one in New York. At Springfield, Ill., he will speak on Lincoln and the addresses at Pittsburgh and Scranton will be especially designed to interest Welshmen.

Easy Justice

We put the rogues behind the bars, for slaying gents or stealing cars, and say, "They're gathered in; their evil deeds they won't repeat;" and then we meet them on the street, all ripe for further sin. And to the nearest cop we say, "How did these villains get away? We thought they were in jail;" the peeler wags his snow-white ears, and sadly murmurs, through his tears, "It is the same old tale. The justice dealt to knaves and crooks is such a hollow form, gadzooks, there is no end of crime; we gather up red-handed skates, and pile up evidence in crates, but no one serves his time." This lovely land of which we boast! of murderers she has the most, and robbers throng the roads; the gunmen follow in our tracks and shoot us full of carpet tacks, and plunder our abodes. In England, though she has her faults, impartial justice never halts, and slayers promptly swing; but here they dodge the gallows-tree, and are as happy as can be we hear them dance and sing. We say to men who'd drink zwei beers "We'll jail you for a hundred years if you commit that crime." and murderers with joyous hands are waltzing by with dripping hands, and few are serving time. And swindlers swipe the widow's mite, and thieves and yeggs go forth by night to lift the [illegible] roll [illegible] maxim and with wise [illegible] say [illegible] and talk about the law with justice in the hole.

No. 16—The Stepoff Dive.

Now you are ready to begin practicing some more dives. But do not forget to practice your simple dive and each of your swimming strokes whenever you go into the water. Strive to keep improving constantly in these while you are learning new things.

The next dive is the stepoff. It is easy and a lot of fun. Simply hold your hands at your sides, take a normal breath, look straight ahead and then walk off the spring board.

Do not jump or fall forward when you reach the end of the board, but just walk as if you could walk on air. You should go straight down, feet first, and will probably go clear to the bottob, but gently, and then rise to the surface in an erect position, ready to tread water.

The only difficult thing is to see that you do not fall forward and hit flat when learning. A little practice will enable you to avoid this. You may hold your nose when learning, if you wish, but do not continue to do so after learning as it looks very awkward. If a little water enters your nose in this dive it is an easy matter to snuff it out as soon as you rise to the surface again.

This dive is a great favorite with the youngsters. It is also used frequently in jumping from a large boat into deep water as on a sea-going vessel which is wrecked.

Tomorrow—The Knee Dive.

PARALLEL TO 1916 EPISODE

RELEASE OF HARDING SPEECH STILL DISCUSSED.

Presidential Party Members Remember Incident of the Hughes Affront to Senator Johnson of California.

By Lawrence Martin

PALACE HOTEL, SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—The deadly parallel was being drawn today between the 1923 episode of the Harding foreign relations speech and the 1916 incident of the Hughes affront to Senator Hiram Johnson, of California.

Members of the presidential party who have been concerned somewhat about the possibilities inherent in Johnson's political popularity in California and elsewhere were strikingly reminded today of the consequence of the 1916 affair, as the storm aroused by publication as a statement of Mr. Harding's foreign relations speech, to have been delivered here, continued to blow without abatement.

Some of Johnson's friends were so angry about this that they did not hesitate to predict that the incident, tho totally unlike the Hughes-Johnson trouble, as to circumstances, might bring about a similar result with respect to California in the 1924 presidential election. The speech was a challange to Johnson on the world court, Russia and the four power Pacific treaty, under circumstances which make it impossible for Johnson to criticize the president's utterances and probably will not assume major importance in political discussions. But in California where Hiram Johnson's friends are legion, and his enemies are at least numerous and aggressive, nothing since the Hughes incident has caused such a stir.

Hughes Avoided Johnson

Hughes, touring the country as a republican presidential candidate, upon entering California put himself in the hands of an anti-Johnson faction of the state republican party. He toured the state without meeting Johnson, tho they were at one time in the same hotel in Long Beach, and there is evidence to show that Hughes knew Johnson was under the same roof.

California swung the presidential election to Woodrow Wilson.

Ever since President Harding put Herbert Hoover, of Palo Alto, Cal., into the cabinet, Johnson's friends and Johnson himself have been persuaded that the administration was as much anti-Johnson as Johnson was anti-administration. But in recent months, Johnson has appeared to be making peace overtures. It was remarked by many that he seemed much more "regular" as a republican in his votes and attitude in the senate. This was construed variously, the most common interpretation being that the California senator wanted to be in good standing with the national republican organization in case circumstances should make it possible for him to seek the 1924 nomination; and that it would make him the logical choice in 1928 should Mr Harding run in 1924.

Johnson was unable to continue this attitude, when Mr. Harding asked the senate to approve American membership in the world court. Johnson with other isolationist senators, saw in this more than Hoover's influence. Johnson again became active in his opposition to Harding.

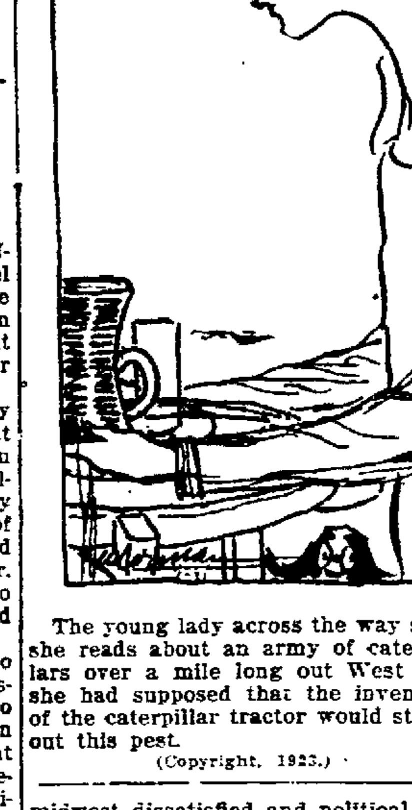

A Doubtful Service

With the farmers of the west and midwest dissatisfied and political dissatisfaction and unrest evident on every hand, Johnson's friends here declare that Hoover or his friends—whom they charge with responsibility for the speech episode—did the administration and the party at best a doubtful service by antagonizing Johnson's friends in this state.

This is particularly true, they say, in view of the fact that Johnson is stronger today in California than he has been for some time. Even anti-Johnson leaders admit this to be the case, and unless Johnson himself passes the word to his friends and political supporters to "laugh it off", the 1923 incident is likely to make political history like the 1916 one did so far as this one state is concerned at least, they assert. They freely speculate on what this may mean should the 1924 presidential fight be close, as was the case in 1916.

NEWS FROM NEBRASKA

FARMERS CONDITION BETTER THIS YEAR

Finances Are Improved, According to Report Made by Two Hundred Bankers Over the State.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 2.—The financial condition of Nebraska farmers with the exception of the fifth congressional district, is better than on July 1, 1922, according to a report made by 200 bankers at the request of the Omaha National bank. Where the farmers have raised diversified crops the average is higher than where single crops have been raisde.

Farm values all over the state, according to the report, were much lower than they were in 1919. The consensus of the opinion was that the land values were practically the same as they were in 1914, or a present decrease as compared with 1919 prices of 25 to 50 per cent. All who answered the questionnaire said there was no sale for land.

"In this connection many correspondents remarked that the farmer who did not buy his land at peak prices and who is not under a heavy load of borrowed capital is managing to break even or making a little money; the farmer seriously in trouble is the man who is attempting to realize on capital investment based on 1919 values," President Head stated.

The report shows there is very little old wheat on the farms, and with few exceutions only sufficient corn to meet the feeding demand until the new crop is available. Generally speaking, there is a marked increase in the number of hogs compared witha year ago. There are few cattle on grain feed, the number being about the same as a year ago. There is the usual number of cattle on grass in the grazing territory.

For the most part from 40 to 60 per cent of the land appears to be encumbered. The average of encumbrance varies with the value of the land, generally running from 25 to 50 per cent of the value. There has been little default in the payment of interest, altho there has been very little reduction on the principal.

LARGE HAULS OF LIQUOR

Samardick and His Squads Destroy More Than $7,000 Worth and Seize Fifteen Persons.

OMAHA, Aug. 2.—In raids which extended from South Omaha to the West Farnum district, Robert Samardick, federal prohibition agent and the two of his squads destroyed more than $7,000 worth of liquor and arrested fifteen persons last night.

A total of 800 gallons of assorted wines and beer was seized at the home of W. W. Maier. A large room was fitted out with tables and chairs officers said. The liquor dstroyed at this place was valued at $5,000. Four inmates were arrested with Maier.

Two raids were also made by Samardick in Sarpy county Wednesday.

HOLDS TREASURER HAS NO POWER TO COLLECT NOW

AURORA, Neb., Aug. 2.—In a brief session of the district court Tuesday Judge Corcoran of York sustained the demurrer in the case of H. E. Toof, county treasurer, against Frank Coykendal in which Toof was seeking to collect taxes from Coykendal on corporate stock not given in for taxation prior to the enactment of the intangible tax law. The petition alleged that Coykendal owned this stock but that he had failed to give it to the assessor and that it has never been assessed and no tax had ever been levied upon it, but that it was due to the county. Coykendal demurred on the ground that the county treasurer has no power under the statutes to collect taxes on property which has never been assessed and on which a tax has not been levied. This demurrer was sustained by the court.

The court also overruled motions for new trial in the case of National American Fire Insurance Co. against A. F. Ackerman, receiver of the American State bank, Maryland Casuality company against A. F. Ackerman, and City National bank of Lincoln against A. F. Ackerman, and John C. Carl against Wm. C. Wentz.

Married at Litchfield.

LITCHFIELD, Neb., Aug. 2.—The marriage of Miss Goldie West of Long Pine, Neb., to John Kuhn of Litchfield, Neb., took place Wednesday at Litchfield at the Methodist parsonage, Rev. E. C. Kemble officiating.

Mr. Kuhn is farming about ten miles north of town and is a member of the Litchfield Methodist church. Mrs. Kuhn who is also a member of the church has been teaching the past year at the Hillcrest school, Dist. No. 80, north of here. The year previous to this she attended the Kearney State normal.

Both have been active in the affairs of the young people of the community and have taken prominent places in its organizations. Over thirty relatives and guests were present. The double ring ceremony was used.

Harry I West and Mabel M. Kuhn, brother and sister of bride and groom, respectively, attended them.

After a brief honeymoon they will return to their new home opposite the Frank Kuhn homestead where a fine house has recently been erected.

Club Boys in Demonstrations.

BROKEN BOW, Aug. 2.—The demonstration teams from the Deercreek Sow and Litter club and the Riverside Pig club are giving their first public club demonstration today before the crowd at the annual Loup precinct farm bureau picnic. This is the first year in club work for all these boys. They are given some help by the county agent and W. W. Derrick of the agricultural college, Lincoln, but most of their training has been given them by their local leaders, August Johnson and Joseph Cherry. Mr Johnson has eight in his club and Mr. Cherry has six.

Big Geneva Picnic Planned.

GENEVA, Neb., Aug. 2.—The events for the A. O. U. W. and Degree of Honor picnic to be held in Geneva August 9 are arranged for and will make a full day's program. A hundred dollars in prizes will be given for the best floats and decorated automobiles, and there will also be prizes for the best features in the children's parade in the afternoon. A ball game between Sutton and Bruning teams will be a free attraction as will a number of stunts by professional entertainers. There will be flag drill by twenty ladies, a human checker game, slow auto race, pageant, address by George R. Boomer, of Lincoln, an concerts by the Geneva and Tobias bands.

BRIEF STATE NEWS.

Aurora—The chautauqua at Aurora is now in full swing. Chautauqua experts have been on the ground for several days organizing the children and preparing the ground for a week of music, entertainment and lectures. J. D. M. Buckner, former pastor of the Methodist church has been in charge of the chautauqua enterprise in Aurora for the past twelve years.

Aurora—Mary Ellen Edgerton of Aurora and Marjorie Martin and Jean Martin of Central City have been asked to give a program at the Fullerton chautauqua Saturday afternoon of this week. Miss Edgerton is a violinist while Miss Marjorie Martin plays the cello and Miss Jean Martin the piano. Their program will consist of solos, duets and trios.

Columbus—Public schools in Platte county including the city of Columbus were conducted during the past fiscal year at a saving of $7,128.59 as compared to the school year of 1921-22 according to figures gleaned from the annual report made by F. S. Lecron, county superintendent and state superintendent Matzen.

Columbus—Platte county ranks sixth among all the counties of the state in property valuation for 1923 and consequently is sixth among all the counties in the amount of money to be paid to the state in taxes according to a bulletin issued by state tax commissioner W. H. Smith of Lincoln. Platte county's valuation stands at $61,540,787.00, state tax to pay $123,081.57.

Kearney—The Grand Island district meeting of the Baptist church is being held in Kearney this week, the three day sessions beginning Tuesday. More than one hundred out of town delegates are in attendance. Rev. J. L. Barton of Omaha, is to conclude the sessions withe his "Evening of Dramatics." All of the sessions are being held at the Baptist church.

Nebraska City—Slipping on a rug in the kitchen, Mrs. W. F. Cook, fell and sustained bad injuries, when she threw out her arm to break the force of her fall. She suffered a long, deep cut in the head, an injured arm and a badly bruised ankle, as she struck against the corner of a kitchen cabinet. She was unconscious for a time, but no bones were broken.

Nebrska City—Another get together trip of the merchants and municipal band of this place was made to Hamburg, Ia., when ninety-two automobile loads accompanied the band to the city across the river, and enjoyed a band concert. This is the third similar trip that has been made to different out of town points this season, and three more are planned.

Kearney—A polished young negro, answering to the name of "Slim" Lewis, is being hunted by the Kearney police. Saturday night he scattered forged pay checks up and down the street, each made out for $16.25. Then he bought a second hand car, paying a part down, by check. The car was found near Wood River, with one wheel smashed. "Slim" was no where near the wreck and no further trace of him has been found.

Nebraska City—Chief of Police Cook threatens to start legal action to collect the semi-annual tax from merchants that sell tobacco in this city, after he visited each one and notified them the tax was due on July 1. Out of a total of sixty-five such merchants, all but two have settled with the city.

Nebraska City—Automobile accessory thieves have again started operations in Nebraska City and vicinity. George W. Davis lost spare tire from hismachine that was parked back of a store. A. O. Mann lost a motometer from his, and three farmers report the theft of lights and other accessories from their cars.

Nebraska City—Using his automobile for power, and preparing a block and tackle, J. P. Mikkleson, a farmer living near this city, was enabled to rescue a cow and calf, that had become mired in the soft mud at the bank of a pond in the pasture. A few days ago, he lost two horses that got mired in the mud of the same stream and sank before he saw them. The flies in the pasture drive the stock to the water for refuge but Mr. Mikkleson is planning on closing it.

The national industrial board estimates that the amount needed for a decent standard of living for a family of five is $1,695 a year.

BIG ATTENDANCE AT POOL

Nearly Forty Thousand Patrons in Forty-seven Days of the Season to Date.

Thirty-eight thousand four hundred patrons have passed thru the turnstiles at the muny swim tank during the forty-seven days of this season's operation to August 1. This is an average of 817 per day. Receipts for the season to date are listed at $5,951.60 in a report filed with Mayor Zehrung Thursday by W. H. Browne, manager of the pool.

The largest single day's attendance was 2,275. The smallest attendance was 25. There were sixteen operating days in June and 31 in July. Maintenance cost was heavy in June because of expenses connected with the opening and the purchase of bathing suits. Manager Browne's statement presents the following comparative figures for June and July with totals:

VETERANS' HOSPITAL TO BE NEAR OMAHA

Federal Government Plans to Build 400 Bed Institution for Nebraska Soldiers Suffering From Tuberculosis.

OMAHA, Neb. Aug. 2.—The federal government will build a 400 bed hospital near Omaha to care for Nebraska's war veterans, who are suffering from tuberculosis.

This was assured when it was authoritatively learned that the United States hospitalization board favored the project and would ask congress to appropriate the necessary funds when it meets in December. Congressional approval is certain.

For several months the board has been making a survey of hospitalization conditions over the country to determine where new government hospitals will be located.

Its report, to be given to Director Hines of the veterans' bureau soon, recommends the construction of a hospital near Omaha. This institution, officials at the veterans' bureau declared today, will cost from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000. Construction probably will start in the spring of 1924.

Blair, it was said, stands an excellent chance of being selected for the hospital site.

Director Hines said that conditions imposed in the offer by Nebraska state officials of the Grand Island Soldiers' home for a hospital made it possible to accept. The district manager of the veterans' bureau had also indicated the Grand Island site was not suitable.

Athletic Tastes in Loot.

NEBRASKA CITY, Aug. 2.—Sheriff Ryder is endeavoring to round up a gang of youngsters that robbed the Fourteenth street school building of a number of basket balls, two pairs of athletic pants, some jerseys and other athletic apparatus some weeks ago. The theft was not discovered until some of the articles were found hidden in the grass near Hayward park, when two young men heard of the discovery and went to the finder to claim the goods. An investigation was then made, and the loss of the other property discovered. After getting the first articles, the boys hid them in the weeds near the school house again. All of the goods have been recovered, and the boys will be given an opportunity to escape the Lincoln Man Finds Car.

KEARNEY, Neb., Aug. 2.—John Luehr, of Lincoln, has recovered his jitney in Kearney. The car was stolen July 24, while parked near the Lincoln high school. Monday evening it was recovered in Kearney, apparently having been abandoned here. The police suspect a young man living here, who was seen driving a similar machine into town. He has since disappeared.

Crop Reports From Otoe.

NEBRASKA CITY, Aug. 2.—Not only will the wheat and fruit crop be short in this section this season, but growers of cabbage and watermelons now report a decided shortage. The melon crop was cut short by the unseasonable weather, and the cabbage crop by the ravages of hordes of insects and worms, that could not be killed. Dry weather has also cut the potato crop short, and is seriously threatening corn.

Nebraska City—Because so much ground was plowed up late this season, and could be planted to nothing else, there promises to be one of the largest yields of turnips ever known in Otoe county. Many farmers have planted big fields of this vegetable, and the demand for seed has been so great that one merchant had to order three times from a seed house.

Railroad Man Is Hurt.

RULO, Neb., Aug. 2.—J. P. Finley, of Falls City, foreman of a Burlington railway pile driver gang, was severely injured while at work on a railway bridge near Troy, Kas., Tuesday evening. It is understood one of the gang was prying a cap ring off a piling, using a heavy crow bar. The bar slipped and the end of it, which had a sharp point, caught Finley across the small of the back, ripping a deep gash across. He was taken to a Falls City hospital.

Death of Sam McMahen.

NEBRASKA CITY, Aug. 2.—Funeral service for the late Sam F. McMahen, one time one of the best known individuals in Nebraska City, and a real pioneer of this city were held. He was past ninety years of age, and had been ill for years of cancer. He was a blacksmith by trade and worked at the forge for more than fifty years of his residence in Otoe county.

Entertain Joseph Daniels.

COLUMBUS, Neb., Aug. 2.—Local democrats are arranging for an informal luncheon to be served at the Evans hotel August 2, complimentary to Joseph Daniels who will be in Columbus to deliver an address at the Chautauqua. Mr. Daniels was secretary of the navy in President Wilson's cabinet during the world war.

Firth Old Settlers' Picnic.

FIRTH, Neb., Aug. 2.—Plans for an old settlers picnic here Friday and Saturday are nearing completion. Band concerts, races, baseball tournaments, speaking, basket dinners and dancing are on the program.

Columbus Bonds Defeated.

COLUMBUS, Neb., Aug. 2.—At a special city election held for the issuance of $7,500 bonds for the erection of a city hall, the bonds were defeated by only four votes. A very light vote was cast.

ENGINEER IS KILLED BY ELECTRIC SHOCK

Albert Fitch Electrocuted When Screw Punctures Lamp Cord, Producing Circuit Thru Car He Was Repairing.

STRATTON, Neb., Aug. 2.—Albert H. Fitch who grew up in Stratton and has been employed at the municipal power plant during the past year was found dead by tourists going to the plant about daybreak. Mr. Fitch had evidently been making some minor repair on his auto with a trouble lamp drawn thru the door of the car. In closing the door a screw puncturing the lamp cord produced a circuit thru the grounded car. Mr. Fitch, standing in water drained from the radiator, was working with the cylinders and upon receiving the shock was thrown in such a manner as to suspend him from the radiator by a rolled-up shirt sleeve. The voltage from the cord was only 110 and it is believed that had he fallen clear of the car the shock would have inflicted only a slight injury, but a continuous charge had caused death some three hours before he was discovered. Funeral services will be held Saturday at Rose Hill cemetery at Stratton.

You, Too, Can Have Beautiful Hair

The novelist says:—"Her hair, soft as silk—"

The movie screen recites:—"Her hair, rich, brown and lustrous—"

The poet sings:—"Her hair, like spun gold—"

Everyone, recognizes the charm of beautiful, soft glossy hair. Yet few realize that beautiful hair is mainly a matter of care and cleanliness.

A FITCH SHAMPOO twice a month will keep your scalp clean and free from dandruff and the pores open. It will remove dirt and unnatural oils from the hair, leaving it healthy, silky and lustrous.

Don't sit by and watch your hair grow thin and lifeless. No amount of curling, patting or tucking away of stray locks can compare with a natural wealth of hair in clean, healthy condition.

Write for copy of our free booklet, "The Secret of Beautiful Hair." The FITCH SHAMPOO is on sale at first class toilet goods counters. In two sizes, 75 cents, $1.50 for family package. Complete directions at leading barber shops.

The Way Katie and Madge Found Jim.

KATHERINE looked at me with a curious startled tenseness when I announced my intention of going with Katie in search of Jim. I knew that expostulation was trembling upon her lips, but before Katie she said nothing save an eager assent to my query.

"Of course I'll see to the dinner," she said. "But come in here a second before you go."

I followed her out of the kitchen, through the dressing-room, and into the library, where she closed the door behind us.

"Look here!" she said, taking me by the shoulders. "There's danger in going after Jim, isn't there?"

"That depends," I returned truthfully. "It depends upon what Jim has succeeded in doing. But I don't believe——"

"But I do believe," Katherine returned firmly. "And I want you to let me go out there with Katie. It —it—doesn't matter much to anybody what becomes of me, but you have your little boy. You ought not to risk danger."

Her words startled me with their implication of unhappiness. I knew that she had no near relatives—but —Jack, her husband—did she mean that it would not matter much to him if anything happened to her? Had anything of which I did not know transpired in my absence to make her feel so morbid?

I had not time to speculate upon the meaning of her words now, however. Reaching up, I took her hands from my shoulders, and held them firmly while I returned her steady gaze.

Katie Prepares Herself.

"I cannot shelter myself with that plea," I said. "It was I who told Jim of that escaped criminal out there, so I, alone, am responsible for his going after him, and I must go to find Jim. Please don't make it hard for me, Katherine."

Her lips curved into a smile at once tender and whimsical.

"I won't, old Don Quixote," she said. "Run along before Mother Graham finds out you're going, or you'll be swallowed whole."

"She'd probably insist upon going, too," I replied as I heeded Katherine's injunction and hurried back to the kitchen, finding Katie, cloaked and hooded, waiting impatiently at the door. She held her arm closely, stiffly against her side, and glancing keenly at it, I saw that she was concealing a long knife against her dress, one of her kitchen implements which I knew was sharpened to a razor edge.

"Put that away, Katie," I said, restraining a smile with difficulty. "We're going out to hunt Jim, not to kill people."

"How you know we no need sooch tings?" Katie demanded truculently, but she laid the knife down obediently, nevertheless. "Vot you goin' do eef dot mans oop dere, start keel us?"

"A Good Idea."

"There's no chance of that," I said with an assured air which I hoped would quiet her fears, but I did not tell her that concealed in my dress was the tiny pistol which Lillian gave me long ago.

Katie accepted the inevitable with a characteristic shrug of the shoulders.

"Maybe so, maybe not," she said sullenly, and then glanced uneasily through the window.

"Sun most down," she observed, "und we no can tell how long eet take to find dot Jeem. You take dot flashlight? No?"

"That's a very good idea, Katie," I assented. "Have you one here?"

"Two," she responded, laconically. "Dot Jeem, he shoost have dem feexed, two, tree, days ago."

"We'll take them both," I decided, glad to be relieved, of the necessity of going after my own in my room with the probability of meeting my mother-in-law on the way.

"I get vun meenit," Katie said eagerly, and in less than the time she had named we were outdoors, walking toward the woodland whither Jim had followed the escaped bootlegger.

But for minutes that seemed hours, an hour that stretched interminably into a century, we found no trace of the intrepid man who had gone out into danger with such brave simplicity.

It was long past twilight, almost pitch dark in fact, when hopelessly plodding back to the house by a different route than that which we had taken out, we heard a muffled attempt at a shout, and using our flashlight, saw Jim, bound and gagged, leaning against a big tree.

YOUR HEALTH

How to Aid a Person Unconscious from a Fall

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

DR COPELAND

A FEW days ago I was driving along in the country when I saw a man lying by the side of the road. His face was grimy with the dirt of the pavement and, until I felt for his pulse, I feared he was dead.

In this day when every street and highway is crowded with automobiles, head injuries due to accident are all too common. Struck a body blow by a powerful automobile, the injured man is thrown to the ground, his head striking the pavement with terrific force. This is what had happened in the case I have mentioned.

What are the causes of loss of consciousness from injury? Among these are fracture of the skull, concussion of the brain, compression of the brain and bleeding into the brain substance.

Any one of these conditions, even the most serious, may exist without any mark upon the body or head. The brain may be seriously damaged without fracture. It is unusual for fracture of the skull to occur without more or less injury to the brain.

The simplest of the brain injuries is concussion. And yet concussion ranges in severity from a brief loss of voluntary movement, lasting but a few minutes, to profound unconsciousness, continuing for hours and ending in death.

When we say that someone was stunned by a fall and was able to go about his affairs in half an hour or so, we describe a very mild concussion of the brain.

In concussion the brain has been shaken and disturbed. There is no damage that the eye can see, even in the fatal cases which have been examined after death. The breathing and heart action are weak, irregular and rapid. The skin is cold and feels clammy to the touch. When consciousness returns there may be vomiting and some fever.

If you are called upon to do something for a person who is stunned or unconscious from any sort of brain injury, you should first find out if there are any marks on the body or head. Make sure that the injured person hasn't fainted from loss of blood.

Then keep the patient perfectly still. Put him to bed in a cool, quiet room, or let him lie on the grass in a quiet place. Don't permit talking or confusion about him.

Elevate his head and shoulders and, unless his temperature is below normal, an ice-cap or cold compresses to the head will be useful.

Do not attempt to pour water or to force food down the throat of an unconscious person. You may do serious harm.

Leave the matter of feeding and further treatment to the doctor, who should be sent for as soon as an accident of this sort is discovered.

Answers to Health Questions.

C. S. P. Q.—What causes a person to have difficulty in breathing?

A.—This may be due to indigestion, heart condition or overweight. The cause should be located and removed.

* * *

F. E M C Q.—Will you please tell me what causes cracking in the knees?

2.—How are peroxide and lemon juice mixed for use as a bleach?

3.—Kindly advise me about——?

A.—This condition is due to the drying up of the synovial fluid. Massage with cod liver oil is very helpful for this.

2.—Mix equal parts of peroxide and lemon juice, apply to the skin, and allow to dry. This makes a very good skin bleach.

3.—Kindly send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for full particulars and restate your question.

T. F. Q.—What can I do for poison ivy?

A.—The best local remedy for this is grindelia robusta, the fluid extract, 1 part to 6 parts of water. Apply with gauze or a cloth. Creolin is sometimes added to advantage. Buttermilk and crude petroleum are remedies sometimes recommended. A solution of hyposulphite of soda, 1 tablespoonful to 1 ounce of water, will relieve the itching.

* * *

W. B. Q.—I am a young man 23 years old, and am 5 ft. 5 in. tall. What should my correct weight be?

A.—For your age and height you should weigh about 134 pounds.

* * *

R. E. R. Q.—What can I do for hot, tired and itching feet?

A.—Constipation is an important factor in this condition, and should be corrected. Drink plenty of water between meals. Bathe the feet frequently, dry thoroughly and apply, hyposulphite of soda, 3 drachms; glycerine 2 drachms; water 4 ounces. Change the hose daily. The shoes, which should be well fitted, should be changed several times a day.

* * *

G. G. Q.—Will you please tell me what causes a lame back, and what to do for it?

A.—This may be due to lumbago or a kidney condition. Have your back strapped with adhesive tape, and apply heat to the affected part. Have your urine examined and see if it shows the cause of the trouble.

* * *

MRS. B. E. Q.—Will you please tell me what causes a pain on the left side of the shoulder?

A.—This may be due to pleurisy, especially if there is pain on deep breathing. In this case you should have treatment by a physician.

* * *

S. H. Q.—My wife is apparently in perfect health, but she never perspires. Is this harmful, and is there a remedy for it?

A.—No, this is not unusual. Your wife should take plenty of water between meals, however.

Good Night Stories

By Blanche Silver

Illustrated by Neva Harrison

BILLY LEARNS TO TAKE CARE OF HIS CAP.

WHEN it came time to go to the circus, Billy couldn't find his cap anywhere.

"Where did you hang it?" asked his mama. "Uncle Ben can't wait, and unless you find your cap, you can't go." And Billy's mama went on about her work, leaving Billy to look for his own cap.

"Oh, dear, that's always the way," grumbled Billy. "Now I suppose I'll miss the circus just because I can't find my cap." And he began throwing things right and left in his search. "I wish the crazy thing was sewed to my coat, then I'll bet—"

"Be careful how you bet," laughed a squeaky voice, "or you may lose." And Gocomeback, the little travel elfin, hopped down from the stand where he had been sitting unnoticed for a long time. "What's gone?"

"My cap!" Billy fairly exploded. "And Uncle Ben's in a dreadful hurry and—"

Uncle Ben blew his horn three times. Billy heard the car start and he began to cry.

"Oh, don't do that!" laughed Gocomeback. "You should fix your cap the way a little fellow I know does; then you'd never lose track of it."

Before Billy could ask any questions, he found himself standing in front of a great tall snow mound in a land of ice and snow.

Two furry creatures, spying them,

"There's a Reason."

came running up, and Billy saw they were a little boy and his sister. They were dressed from head to foot in skins.

"Eskimos!" whispered Billy. The little boy heard him and, laughing merrily, nodded his head.

Gocomeback introduced the Eskimo boy and his wee sister and told Billy that this was the little fellow who always knew where his cap was.

"There's a reason," laughed the little Eskimo boy. "Mother has it sewed to my coat. Couldn't do without my cap. Couldn't go into the house without it on."

"How's that?" Billy asked. "Mother doesn't like to have me wear my cap in the house."

"Well, you don't have to live in a snow house, I guess," laughed the little Eskimo boy. "We do, and to get inside, we have to crawl in through a low hole in the side of the snow wall and if we didn't pull our caps up close the snow would all get down our necks," and he showed Billy how he and his sister had to get into the house. "Better sew your cap to your coat, it's the only way," and the two children ran back to their barking dogs, jumped on their sleighs and rode away.

A machine honked out in front and Billy ran to the window and his foot struck something and there was his cap on the floor. Uncle Ben had just gone to fill up the gas tank.

You can believe it or not, after that when anyone called for Billy, he always knew just where to find his cap and he didn't have it sewed to his coat either.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am considered good-looking, but my mother brought me up on the old-fashioned principle that you mustn't let a boy kiss you until you are engaged.

I know this is right, but I had been good friends with a young man in this place until one night when we got home from a party he seized me and kissed me. I slapped him as it made me very angry at first.

Since then he has refused to speak to me and does not even notice me. He was a nice, respectable young man and none of the young men have anything to do with me. I am very much worried, for I don't want any enemies and I am very anxious to be friends again. Is there anything I can do without seeming bold? PATSY.

PATSY: You were rude when you slapped the young man's face, my dear. You could have told him you didn't want him to kiss you without that.

The correct thing for you to do is to invite him to call on you and apologize, but let him understand clearly that he must not attempt it again if he wishes to remain your friend.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl seventeen years of age and I am in love with a young man one year my senior. I went to various places with him and he was always very nice to me; but about two months ago I made a blunder. I explained it to him and he forgave me, but since then he does not act the same.

I wish very much to regain his friendship and be true friends again. He treats me very coolly and I try to act my best, but somehow there is some misunderstanding between us.

Is jealousy a sign of love?

Please advise me what to do.

U. Z. M. N.

U. Z. M. N.: There is nothing you can do except to continue as you are, my dear. No, jealousy is not a sign of love.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens and I have been going with a young man four years my senior. He has told me he loves me and calls to see me often.

There is another young man I am acquainted with and would like to make friends with, but I don't know whether it would be the right thing to do when I have another friend that I love.

Please give me your advice.

VIOLET K.

VIOLET K.: You are not engaged, my dear, and there is no reason why you shouldn't have both young men for friends. Ask the second young man to call on you. In this way you will get to know him better.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her, in care of this office.

HEROINES OF HISTORY

Significant Incidents in the Lives of Famous Women

By MARK STUYVESANT

A Glimpse of the Romantic Life of Vittoria Colonna.

IN the year 1494, on the beautiful island of Ischia in the Bay of Naples, a little girl played in the sunshine and ran along the seashore gathering pebbles.

She was the daughter of Fabrizio Colonna, the Grand Constable of Naples. Her mother was a daughter of the "Good Duke" Frederick of Urbino, so this child was "born to the purple."

So distinguished was her family that Ferdinand of Aragon, King of Naples, commanded her marriage with Franchesco Pescara, of a noble family of the island of Ischia.

The betrothal took place when

The Children Were Brought Up Together on the Island of Ischia.

Vittoria—for that was her name—was four years old.

There is nothing more beautiful in the history of the reigning families of Europe than the romance of these two children, who spent their early years on the beautiful island of the Bay of Naples, with the sweet thought in their young hearts that one day they would be married.

Although many suitors sought her hand, including the Duke of Savoy and the Duke of Braganza, Vittoria had no desire save to marry her playmate, Franchesco, which she did when she had just passed her seventeenth year.

For five years they were very happy on this sheltered island, protected from the strife which was raging between Naples and Rome, and between France and Spain.

Then Franchesco heard the call to arms, and offered his sword to the Holy League. He enlisted at Ravenna and immediately set out for France.

Franchesco Pescara soon became one of the most brilliant of the captains of Charles the Fifth, under whom he served. At the price of treason the crown of Naples was offered to him, but it was Vittoria who influenced him to decline it.

In 1525 Franchesco was mortally wounded at Milan. Vittoria was crushed, and hurried to see him before he died. But it was too late. He breathed his last before his adoring wife could reach him.

Vittoria returned to her little island and lived in seclusion for ten years, declining the many offers of marriage which were pressed upon her.

Here she began to write, and from her pen came the "Rime Spiritual," which is by far her most distinguished work.

In 1538 Vittoria went to Rome.

She was the most beautiful woman of that city, and at the same time the leader of society and letters. But her crowning success was the wonderful friendship it was her privilege to form. For with the great Michel Angelo Vittoria enjoyed one of the truly beautiful friendships of the Renaissance.

Michel Angelo was sixty-five. Vittoria was a beautiful woman. Between them passed many exquisite letters in the form of sonnets. It is said that Vittoria was the real inspiration of much of the great artist's work.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

"Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home"

By WANDA BARTON

Solving Some of the Problems of Teaching Good Manners.

WHERE, if not at home, shall our children learn good manners? They are made to behave according to certain standards at school, but the manners of good breeding are only learned at home. A certain amount of good manners is required before a pupil is accepted in a so-called "finishing" school, and if manners are not taught at home, they are picked up here and there as the child realizes their need. But they do not know why they do certain things or the laws that govern the courtesy expected from one who is well-bred. This is all up to the home teacher, and she should do her part if she wants her pupils to be a credit to her and take their places in the sun.

First comes the politeness and consideration one toward another expressed in everyday home life—not company manners, but just the best home manners—gentle of voice, kind in criticism, polite to one another and to servants; being slow to ask favors, but ready to grant them to those who ask things in reason. Tact is an attribute to be fostered—the poise that comes from knowing what to do and when to do it comes as the result of careful training.

Table manners need constant attention until the child is so sure of itself that mistakes seldom creep in. This means that the home table must be kept right up-to-date, so that manners learned there will bear fruit elsewhere, as well. Carelessness should not pass uncorrected, but at a quiet, convenient season tell the child—not before others—of its shortcomings. It is apt to make a child stubborn and resentful to be corrected in public, and so the lesson is often lost.

A good dancing school is often an excellent corrective where home influence fails in establishing the little courtesies between the children of the dance age. Envy and jealousy often creep in regarding dress at such schools, and the wise mother has a plain talk with her children and explains that it is her wish to have them dress very simply—in fine materials, but nothing elaborate—until they are of a suitable age. It matters not whether rich or in moderate circumstances, simplicity is always in the best taste. They are there to learn deportment and dancing, and not to be fashion models. Children always are happier after plain talks with mother and understand then that she is not being stingy, but has a definite reason for not fussing them all up.

Another too often neglected field is that of letter writing—formal as well as social. There are certain letters we are called upon to write, and it is a good idea to learn the polite forms for them. It is only after maturity that we can afford to be individual in these things. The importance of the "bread and butter" letter is so often overlooked, and it is such a little thing to do to openly acknowledge one's gratitude to a hostess who has taken no end of trouble in order that we might have a good time in her home.

Letters of sympathy to bereaved friends are often neglected or side-tracked because people "don't know what to say." The art of writing formal letters of this sort should be taught. It is a part of the social structure of good manners. Then the letters of acceptance for invitations, both formal and informal, should be considered. The period of time in which they should be answered and the forms of answering change very little with the passage of time, for the best way has been chosen and is generally followed. It is knowing about these things and bowing to them that stamps us as being well-bred.

It is an art to write a letter asking a favor—for a donation to something with which you may be connected, or to ask for a job. This letter of approach should be courteous, direct and to the point, clear and well-worded. It is the letter oftentimes that wins the position rather than personality.

The social letter is a question that is open to a great deal of criticism. There must be a reason for the correspondence and an interest that makes it worth while, if it is to be a success. Subject matter should be adapted to the ages of writer and recipient. Excuses, apologies, compliments and unpleasant subjects are to be avoided. Bright, newsy—but not gossipy letters—are always a pleasure to receive, and it takes training and thoughtful interest to write them.

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

She Chats About an Attractive Late-Summer Bathing Suit.

MISS MILES came hurrying into Madame's early this morning. It was only ten and her clients seldom begin coming till after eleven.

I had just been in long enough to remove my street clothes and put on a little thin silk frock I usually wear when I'm not modeling things for clients. I was changing into nude stockings and black satin slippers.

I heard Miss Miles mention a bathing suit and began reflecting how very pleasant it would be at the present minute to be wearing a bathing suit.

"Of course, it's a trifle late in the season to be getting a new one," Miss Miles continued. "But my other one is sadly faded, and I feel that a fresh new suit would make me feel keener and fresher."

"That's just the psychology I'm in favor of," Madame replied. "I apply it in frocks and bathing suits alike. In fact, I often make a specialty of attractive new bathing suits at this time of year, simply because I feel that any woman would do well to have a new one."

"Besides, I refuse to feel extravagant," Miss Miles said. "I know your suits are so smart that this one will be quite right for me to take South next Winter."

"Well, I have some very smart advance models," Madame admitted.

I was asked to model the newest bathing suit, and soon I was donning a colorful hand-blocked linen and cunning little bloomers of shiny black satin.

I tied a black and white rubberized silk handkerchief over my head, put on black satin bathing shoes and went forth for Miss Miles to have a look.

"Do come closer and let me see that stunning fabric," she said as soon as she saw me.

I did so and explained that the material was hand-blocked linen much like cretonne in effect, but more pliable in texture.

"The shiny satin bloomers are smart," she remarked in a pleased tone. "I like the way they match the shiny binding of the suit."

"The bloomers have three rows of elastic to give that shirred effect above the knees," Madame explained.

"I like the suit immensely," the prospective client admitted.

We showed her others, one a cunning affair with much cherry color in the design and with cherry satin bloomers.

"These bloomers have a different treatment at the knee," Madame explained. "There's a bias piece sewed on, which ties neatly at the side of the knee. This gives the trim effect of riding trousers and still allows ample freedom for knee movement."

Miss Miles thought these very smart, but she stuck to the gay printed bathing suit with the shiny black bloomers.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

FRIDAY, AUGUST 3.

Although there may be a degree of activity in the general trend of events, according to the lunar transits, yet there may be but small financial return or security. Risking money in investment, speculation or in any manner may be hazardous, and lending money may be ill-advised. With care, business may hold together. Domestic and heart affairs may not be under favorable auspices.

Those whose birthday it is are under a rule making money matters critical if any manner of risk be attempted. Avoid speculation and lending money. There may be anxieties in the home and affectional relations. A child born on this day may suffer some loss through friends and encountering difficulties in love, yet live a successful life.

LATE NEWS OF YESTERDAY

SOMMER WILL FILE REPORT

GEORGE HALL AND ROY COCHRAN HELD HIS PAPERS.

State Accountant Delayed in Making Official Report Which Governor Complained Had Not Been Filed.

C. A. Sommer, state accountant, who investigated the alleged deficit in the road construction fund of the state department of public works, is now at work upon an official report. Governor Bryan recently complained in an interview that no report of the accountant had been filed with the governor as required by law in the case of all investigations by the state accountant.

Mr. Sommer replied by saying the cause of his failure to file a report was "another story" but he did not tell the story. It is now said by Mr. Sommer that he did not complete and file his report because he was asked by the governor's finance department to co-operate in a check of the road construction fund, and after consenting to this he turned over his work sheets of the investigation to George E. Hall and Roy Cochran, once the head of the finance department, and the other the head of the road department.

These papers were turned over July 6 and Mr. Sommer was unable to get possession of them again until July 21. As he was then engaged in checking annual settlements of county treasurers with the state he had little time to complete his report. He will now do so and file a copy with Governor Bryan. He had previously announced that there was a probable deficit of $241,000 in the road construction fund, the exact amount depending upon the amount the federal government allows on what is called the overrun account, or the amount allowed in payment of costs of construction when the work completed costs more than the estimated amount.

It was while these papers were held by Mr. Hall and Mr. Cochran, says Mr. Sommer, that the governor publicly complained that Mr. Sommer had filed no report with the governor.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW

The marriage of Miss Mina Kaffenberger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Kaffenberger to Carl J. Cortright was solemnized Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at Trinity Methodist church. Rev. Lloyd Foster performed the ceremony in the presence of four hundred guests before a background of silver screens, tall candelabra and vases of flowers and palms. Preceding the ceremony Miss Dorothy Penton sang, "O Perfect Love" and Miss Rena Olson played the wedding march as the wedding party entered. The little ribbon pages, Clayton Ankeny and Earl Brown led the bridal procession and were followed by the bridesmaids. Miss Frances Rystrom, who wore a gown of coral pink crepe, trimmed with silver lace; Mrs. John B. Kaffenberger, in a gown of nile green crepe de chine, trimmed in silver; Miss Pauline Karlson, in turquoise blue georgette over satin; Mrs. Charles Spacht in silver grey trimmed in coral and the Misses Gladys and Goldye Kaffenberger who wore lavender georgette over satin. All wore silver head bands and carried arm bouquets of asters. The four little flower girls entered next, Norma Baumgart, Thyra Baumgart, Maxine Cloidt and Thais Furr, all wearing white organdie and carrying baskets of flowers. They were followed by the maid of honor, Miss Florence Ohler, in sunset pink taffeta trimmed with silver roses. She carried an arm bouquet of Ophelia roses. Next came the two little ringbearers, Clara Irene Kurtzer and Harry Ankeny, jr., who carried the rings for the double ring ceremony in white lilies. The bride entered with her father who gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of white satin and chiffon, trimmed in pearls and her veil was arranged with a headdress of pearls. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, the gift of the groom. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. V. R. Cloe of Des Moines, Ia., acted as best man. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride, 1955 A. The house was decorated with summer flowers and pink streamers and Japanese lanterns were used on the lawn where ices and cakes were served. Mrs. E. B. Baer and Mrs. Clyde Boyles were in charge of the serving and were assisted by Phoebe Whiting, Anna Mae Rystrom, Ruth Rystrom, Mrs. T. H. Cromwell, Mrs. R. C. McMillen and Mrs. J. J. Kirsch. Mrs. F. G. Parks presided at the punch bowl and Miss Esther Schafer was in charge of the guest book. Out-of-town guests who came for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Kaffenberger, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Cloidt, H. E. Becker, P. T. Becker and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wiles, Floyd Becker, Mrs. Ben Speck, Miss Lenore Snyder and Raymond Cook, Platts mouth; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miller, Sam Hardnock and Jess Hardnock and family, John Woods and family, Archie Miller and family and Kyle Miller of Alvo. After an extended wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Cortright will make their home in Des Moines, Iowa.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Hargreaves to Edward Edmondson took place Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock at the home of the bride's brother J. W. Hargreaves, in the presence of about forty guests. Rev. John Rollings officiated. Miss Jewell Talbert was the bride's only attendant and George Hargreaves acted as best man. Mrs. Vern Watson, sister of the bride, played the Lohengrin wedding march as the bridal party entered. The bride wore a gown of white Canton crepe made on long straight lines and trimmed with silver ribbon. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses tied with tulle. The bridesmaid wore a gown of soft pale green and carried a bouquet of pale pink roses. Palms and garden flowers in pink and white were used in the decorations thruout the rooms. At the reception which followed the wedding, ices and cakes were served. In the center of the table was a mirror on which rested a bowl of pink roses. Mrs. Leslie Serven and Mrs. H. A. Keffer were in charge of the dining room. They will make their home at 1729 M street.

Edmund M. Fairfield of Omaha whose boyhood days were spent in Lincoln is to go to Chicago as publicity agent for the Burlington road. He is the son of E. B. Fairfield, chancellor of the university many years ago, and brother of Ernest B. Fairfield, now secretary of the state board of control. Mr. Fairfield was general manager of the Omaha water works until the plant was bought by the city and since that time has been treasurer of the Bee Publishing company. About thirty years ago he was private secretary to Mr. Touxalin, a Burlington official. The publicity department which Mr. Fairfield will have charge of is a new department which will be attached to the work of the vice president who is traffic manager.

Miss Marian Boynton left Wednesday for Oswego, Ill., where she will be a guest at a house party at the home of Miss Fern Cliggett. She will go from there to Chicago and Aurora, returning in about two weeks.

Miss Della Swearingen entertained at a surprise miscellaneous shower Tuesday evening at her home, 440 South Twenty-seventh, complimenting Miss Lucile Keefer whose marriage to Fred Leland Hastings will take place in August. Eighteen guests were present. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the decorations and in the appointments of the luncheon which was served at the close of the evening. Miss Ruth Smith and Miss Irene Adelson assisted the hostess in serving the pink cakes and the ice cream which was in the shape of pink roses. A mock wedding and dancing furnished the entertainment for the evening.

State Tax Commissioner W. H. Smith has gone to the western part of the state on business. Shell Clark, formerly county assessor of Platte county, has been assisting Mr. Smith in the work of preparing state tax rolls used by the board of equalization in making the state levy, and in other work in the tax commissioner's office.

Mrs. E. A. Becker, jr., entertained Wednesday afternoon at bridge for eight guests. A color scheme of orange and yellow was carried out in flowers and in refreshments. A two course luncheon was served.

Charles Olson and daughters, Blenda and Clara, left Sunday by motor for a trip to Chisago Lake, at Chisago, Minn. They expect to be gone several weeks.

AGAIN ASKS HIS FREEDOM

J. G. V. Ingoldszy Files Amended Petition for Habeas Corpus to Release Him From Pen.

James G. V. Ingoldsby, acting as his own attorney, filed an amended petition Wednesday for a writ of habeas corpus to obtain his freedom from Lancaster prison, where he says he is unlawfully confined. Judge Munger ordered Warden Fenton to appear Monday at 9:30 and show why such a writ should not be issued.

Mr. Ingoldsby's appeal to the supreme court of Nebraska failed, he says, because this court did not act under the same law it imposed on the trial judge. Also, he was not heard by a quorum of the seven duly elected justices, but by three of them and some district judges invited to sit with them, under the new constitution. Therefore, he charges, "every legal right of a human being was denied him in the supreme court of the state of Nebraska." Hence his appeal to the feedral court as a last resort.

HELD ON ASSAULT CHARGE

W. E. Sawyer, Florida School Man, Arrested Wednesday at Geneva. Fights Extradition.

GENEVA, Neb., Aug. 1.—W. E. Sawyer, school principal at Wauchula, Fla., is now being held here on a charge of assaulting a school girl of that place. He is fighting extradition. A Florida officer is here to take him back, and Judge Fulton of the county court decided that there is enough evidence to hold him, but he has appealed to district court.

Sawyer was arrested last Wednesday while inquiring for mail under the name of W. E. Smith. He is forty years old, has a wife and five children.

POSTAL EMPLOYES ORGANIZE

Delegates From Lower Class Postoffices in Lancaster County Start Service Council.

Fifteen delegates from the third and fourth class postoffices of Lancaster county met at the Raymond postoffice Tuesday evening and organized a county service council. The object of this council is better service and cooperation among postal employes. Mary L. Taylor, Raymond, was elected chairman; Lewis Coale rural carrier at Bennet, vice chairman; W. W. Wilson, rural carrier at Raymond, chaplain; Estella M. Dougherty, postmistress of Roca, secretary.

The executive committee: Hannah Price, postmistress at Bennet, chairman; Carriers Osterman of Malcolm, Neff of Davey Dick of Fifth and Postmasters Birt of Hickman, Taylor of Raymond and A. J. Frank of Davey. After the business meeting, watermelon was served and Miss Alta Dougherty gave several piano selections. The next meeting will be held October 9 in Lincoln.

MORE TROUBLE FROM FLOODS

June Rise On Platte River Still Destroying Property at San Pits Near Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, Neb., Aug. 1.—The June rise of the Platte river at this place did more damage than was at first thought, as the course of the river, temporarily diverted through the Lyman-Richey sand pits, continues through there. Up to date, the company has spent $5,000 to protect its property, and unless the efforts, which at present look dubious, succeed, a far greater loss will ensue.

SAY SOLICITOR UNAUTHORIZED

Claim Man Seeking Relief for Trainmen Has No Endorsement.

Warning is being given by Walter S. Whitten, secretary of the Lincoln chamber of commerce, to citizens and business men that an unauthorized solicitor has been receiving money by presenting a subscription list to various business houses asking aid for the relief of department of the brotherhood of railway trainment.

When the paper was shown to Alwin G. Amos, of the Hutchins & Hyatt company, it contained a large list of substantial subscriptions. The solicitor purports to have the endorsement of both the chamber of commerce and the brotherhood of railway trainmen, but neither organization has given consent to the use of their names, Mr. Whitten said.

L. B. Frye, state labor commissioner and also secretary of the brotherhood of railway trainmen, stated that no such solicitation has been authorized and that such system of relief is not a part of the relief program.

FREMONT TAXES ARE LOWER

City Council Makes Biggest Cut in Many Years.

FREMONT, Neb., Aug. 1.—City taxes in Fremont have been slashed nearly 20 per cent by the city council. The savings to the taxpayers of Fremont will be ten mills on the dollar or a total of $25,000. This is the biggest cut made in city taxes in Fremont in many years. The city tax has been reduced from 55 mills to 45 mills.

M. T. CUMMINGS IS BANKRUPT

Grain Dealer Pleads Debts of Thirty Thousand, Assets Less Than Two Thousand.

Marion T. Cummings, president of the M. T. Cummings Grain company, filed petition in voluntary bankruptcy Wednesday afternoon, giving his debts as $29,639.70 and his assets $1,963 of which $363 is exempt by law.

In his debts Mr. Cummings lists but $517 as unsecured claims, $7,122.70 as claims that should be paid by other parties to them, and gives one secured claim for $2,000 owing to the Nebraska State bank of Valpariso on a note. The rest is included in two items of accomodation paper, one of them a $500 given to Marie Longtin of Beatrice for money borrowed for and used by the M. T. Cummings Grain company, a corporation. The other is for $20,000 borrowed from the National Bank of Commerce for the use of the corporation, and secured by trust deeds to the company's Lincoln elevator, a farm in Middle Creek township, and the pplegate ranch near Woodlake, Cherry county. The bank has foreclosed these deeds, Mr. Cummings said, and sold for $6,000 all the properties not covered by prior mortgages.

Mr. Cummings' assets are listed as stocks and bonds in the sum of $1,600 household goods, $353; and books and pictures $10. The last two items are exempt by law.

VETERAN OX DRIVER IN CITY

Working to Make Oregon Trail a Memorial to Pioneers.

Ezra Meeker, veteran ox team driver and pioneer residing in Seattle arrived in Lincoln Wednesday on his way from New York city to Seattle for the purpose of interesting chambers of commerce and historical societies in making the Oregon trail a memorial to the early pioneers.

Seventy-one years ago Mr. Meeker crossed Nebraska behind an ox team and today he is making the trip in a comfortable Pullman. In 1906 he crossed the continent with an ox team from New York to Seattle.

He will retrace his trip to Council Bluffs Thursday and then will go to Grand Island Monday, where he will confer with city officials.

Mr. Meeker expects to be with the Lincoln chamber of commerce Thursday noon.

CHILD INJURED BY A COW

Had Been Playing With Calf When Attacked by Its Mother.

FREMONT, Neb., Aug. 1.—Laura Stieren, six years old daughter of a farmer residing near West Point was still unconscious this afternoon at the Fremont hospital where she was brought Tuesday evening, following an attack by a mother cow.

BOND ISSUE AT FREMONT

FREMONT, Neb., Aug. 1.—Citizens of Fremont will be called upon soon to vote bonds of $120,000 for a new sewerage disposal system, according to Mayor Harry P. Larson. The project was voted down at a previous election but the courts have ordered that the present system, decreed a nuisance, be replaced by an improved method of sewerage disposal.

The city officials have been working on a new plan but no details have been made public. The use of Rawhide creek to carry off the sewerage of Fremont has been attacked by the farmers of Douglas county in the courts for years.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW

Prof. C. A. Sjogren, instructor of mechanical engineering at the university, is one of a number of engineering teachers who have just completed a course of summer lectures on electrical engineering subjects held at the East Pittsburgh works of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company. This summer conference for engineering teachers has been held annually for the past thirteen years. This year's conference started July 2 and ended July 31. A program is worked out for the professors so as to afford each one an opportunity to carry out some line of engineering work. Inspection trips are conducted thru the East Pittsburgh works and also thru manufacturing plants in the vicinity of East Pittsburgh so that the professors will become acquainted with the different kinds of work graduates of technical schools are doing. The teachers often have an opportunity to meet former pupils who now have entered into industrial life. Lectures are arranged so that the conference professors may hear departmental managers and thus learn the functions of the various departments that make a large manufacturing plant. Eighteen teachers attended the conference. They represented most of the big engineering schools of the country.

Miss Bernice Trott became the bride of Eaton M. Summers at a pretty home wedding at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Ella Trott, 2843 Starr, Thursday morning at 8 o'clock. Mr. Summers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Summers. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the members of the immediate families by Rev. Lloyd Foster. The bride wore a gown of gray canton crepe with a lace overdress and carried a shower bouquet of roses and orange blossoms. A three course wedding breakfast was served following the ceremony. Decorations on the table carried out the color scheme of pink and white. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Lissa Treston of Iola, Kas., aunt of the bride, and Miss Lona Trott of Fort Dodge, Ia., sister of the bride. The couple left by motor for Evergreen, Colo., where they will spend a month. They will make their home at Schuyler where Mr. Summers will teach in the high school the coming year. Mrs. Summers is a former student of the University of Nebraska and Mr. Summers was graduated with the class of 1922.

The marriage of Miss Bess Ada Adgate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Adgate of Ionia, Mich., to H. J. Philips, son of Mrs. Alice M. Philips, 507 East Fifteen, University Place, took place at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents in Ionia. After an extended automobile tour thru the east they will make their home at 3009 R, Lincoln. Mrs. Philips is a graduate of the University School of Music at Ann Arbor, Mich. and is also a graduate of the Chicago Musical college. She spent two seasons with the Standard Chautauqua of Lincoln and has visited in Lincoln a number of times. During the past year she has been supervisor of music in the public schools at Kalamazoo, Mich. She MEDIUM BROWN HAIR ... [illegible] ... Shampoo.—Adv.

SIDE TALKS

By Ruth Cameron

Before he became too much interested in affairs of other worlds to ... [illegible] ... things mundane, A

Conan Doyle wrote a set of maxims for the married. They are 15 and all excellent. The one I like best is this: "Never both be cross at the same time. Wait your turn."

We have exactly that arrangement in our family.

Only we put it differently. One of us says: "I am pudgy this morning. Look out for me."

And the other tries to heed the warning.

You May Use It.

Pudgy is an invented word in this particular meaning, patented by our family (but we hereby offer to let any Reader Friend in good standing use it). The dictionary gives it the meaning of short and fat or sturdy. I appeal to you if our meaning of irascible, and cranky isn't much more what the word actually sounds like.

A member of our family calls himself pudgy when he is in that frame of mind that every little thing irritates him and annoys him and he doesn't feel fit for human consumption.

The rest of the family are supposed, when this announcement has been made, to let him alone as much as possible, and above all things to avoid stepping on pet corns. No delicate subjects are brought up at this time. Issues that always bring trouble are carefully kept away from.

Most of the big upsets in married life come when trying subjects are brought up at the wrong time.

Kid Glove Subjects.

Between every couple (except those incredible and annoying people who insist that they never have had a disagreement or a cross word in all their married life) there are certain subjects that have to be handled with gloves. Even when these subjects come up in the most smiling weather clouds are apt to gather very rapidly and the barometer to fall with startling suddenness. Sometimes big things, sometimes little things. The way his mother wants to manage the house when she visits them; her brother-in-law's conduct in the matter of that business deal; the question as to whether she does or doesn't coddle the children too much; the eternal subject of the household bills; the way she interrupted him that time when he was telling a story; the amount of money he spends for tobacco. In every family they are different as to detail and in every family they are intrinsically the same.

If these matters are brought up at a time when either of the parties is pudgy, what chance is there to avoid a quarrel? Almost none.

It Isn't Abused.

Of course one might argue that, if announcing that one is pudgy means that one has special consideration for the day, some member of the family will abuse the privilege. That doesn't happen. For two reasons. In the first place it is a matter of honor not to. In the second place if anyone did, he would soon wear the privilege out and it just wouldn't work for him.

So we each have our turns at being pudgy and at trying to keep things smooth when some other member is pudgy.

Don't you think it is a good scheme?

"The Temple Opera Singers presented the second act of the opera 'Martha' and according to musicians' opinion it represented the best in vocal music. BOHEMIAN TOURIST VISITS IN LINCOLN

Polle A. K. Bur, young Czecho-Slovakian student, who is spending a few days in Lincoln on his trip around the world, which he is making on foot. Bur is the guest of Dr. Miles Breuer while in the city. With the death of his father he will become the last of a long line of Bohemian aristocrats, whose fortunes changed in later years because of exile. His father is a retired professor of pedagogy. Bur left Prague May 15, 1922, and has had many exciting experiences. America he finds most interesting, and he hopes to return to this country some day. The most outstanding characteristic of the American is to him, his predilection for talking about money at all times of the day and night. He has been accustomed to nations who philosophize and talk about art during their hours of ease. He does not hold the fact that the Americans that he has seen do not do this against them, but merely looks upon it as a curious phenomenon.

The Status of the Farmer.

In the far west agriculture is in a position analogous to that of Pacific coast manufacturing. The producers of staples for the world market get it in the neck; those turning out specialties based on climatic advantages continue to do well. Wheat producers and stock raisers are, therefore, still struggling with the 1920 notes, but the producers of butter, milk, cheese, eggs and pork for the home market are mowing the lawn on Easy street. California, by the way, despite its oranges, olives, raisins and figs, produces twenty million pounds of prosaic butter more per annum than either Illinois or Indiana.

The producers of specialties like citrus fruits, walnuts, prunes, raisins, etc., have been prospering according to their deserts, if they thru their marketing associations did not maintain too high a price for too long a time, thereby restricting the market and unduly increasing production, they are doing well. If they failed to take the common-sense course, they are eating the hot soup of trouble right from the stove of adversity with an aluminum spoon.

Taking the rural regions of the far west by and large it can safely be asserted that at least sixty per cent of the population is as better off than the farmers in the middle west.

COWGILL INFLICTS DEGREE OF PUNISHMENT.

Pulls Heavy Outfit Out of Normal Because, He Says, There Are More Deserving People Elsewhere to Serve.

Because some seventeen Normalites have stirred the wrath of Commissioner Cowgill, the people of that community must be punished. He charges them with lack of appreciation and for this reason he has pulled out of Normal with his heavy road outfit and declares he will go into a neighborhood whose citizens are more deserving.

He has been grading dirt roads in the south and east for more than two weeks. He opened up ditches, crowned the dirt speedways and performed every service, he says, essential in proper road construction. Now he finds that seventeen people are opposing him. He declares they have filled the ditches with dirt in order to provide crossing facilities for their automobiles.

The seventeen offenders, he says, live on Normal boulevard south of South street. They have ignored his order to build bridges. He gave each and every one of the so called seventeen offenders ten days notice. If the dirt is not removed from the ditch by the end of the tenth day, he promises court proceedure.

He said that road crowning and grading Normal was about half completed when he discovered this lack of appreciation.

COUNTY LEVY TO BE SAME

The county levy given in divisions per $100 valuation is as follows:

	Last Year	This Year
General Fund	$ .08	$ .10
Bridge Fund	.06	.05
Road Fund	.02	.01
Soldiers Relief	.004	.004
Totals	$ .164	$ .164

The total amount of taxes raised by the county this year will be $281,042. This is about $16,400 more than was collected last year. The difference lies in the increase in valuation of taxable property and not in the size of the levy. The levy for the sanitary districts this year is 10 cents the same as last and equivalent to the whole general fund asked by the county.

The total school tax last year was $1,760,254. This year it will be but $1,758,021 which is quite a drop from last year. This amount includes the $1,200,000 levied for the Lincoln school alone. The school levy at University Place is the highest of any district in the county. It was placed at $2.48 per one hundred dollars valuation of property, in comparison with $1.32 the Lincoln rate and $.12 in districts Nine and Eighteen, the lowest in the county.

A comparison of the state and county levies since 1910 shows that the commissioners have kept hammering down the county levy from nearly twice the amount of the state levy in 1910 until it is at last less than the amount of the state levy. The state and county tax levies in mills for the last ten years are as follows:

	State Levy	County Levy
1910	5	11
1912	5.2	11.7
1914	7.8	10.7
1916	6.1	11
1918	7.68	9.52
1920	10.59	14.

In 1922 the basis of levy was changed from the mill to the cent and the taxable valuation from one-fifth to full. In that year the state levy was 23 cents and the county levy but 16.4 cents; this year the state levy was dropped .3 of a cent, making the comparison of the two for the present year 20 cents for the state and 16.4 cents for the county.

STATE TAKES JURISDICTION

functions and the charges of the elevator companies would be as subject to regulation as those of the railroads now are.

The commission says that in dealing with shippers the railroads are not free to exclude such applicants for leases as it sees fit or to treat its relationships with them as private transactions. The commission is bound by law to protect railroad patrons from unjust discrimination and preferential treatment of competitors. If such proof is disclosed the commission must order its removal. If discrimination results by reason of lease relationships between a railroad and one shipper as compared with the carrier's relationship with another shipper not enjoying a leasehold, that discrimination would have to be removed and the commission would have jurisdiction to hear complaints as to any phase of the matter.

The commission holds against the shippers' claim that the old condition of nominal rental is proper. Not every shipper can get on the right of way with his industry, and if the road charges only a nominal sum to those thus favored those not so favored must make up the difference since the entire property of the carrier is allowed to earn a return.

As to the specific cases before it the commission says it must have more testimony, and reopens the cases for that purpose.

PAROLE VIOLATORS RETURNED

Nelson and Walters Will Be Transferred to Pen.

Harry Nelson and L. D. Walters paroled from the state reformatory have been returned for violation of parole and are to be transferred to the penitentiary. N. T. Harmon, chief probation officer of the state board of paroles, returned the men from Omaha. Nelson stated that he and Walters had been drinking and had forged checks to buy whisky. Nelson was originally sent to the reformatory for breaking and entering in Omaha. He was paroled and being a tubercular patient was not to be allowed to work while on parole. Nelson said he and Walters forged a check by signing the name of Volney Thompson. Nelson said he forged three which he signed himself, but he had promised to refund the $70 thus obtained when he passed the checks. He has not refunded any part of the money.

Walters was originally sentenced from Sioux county for forgery. He was paroled by the former board in December, 1922. Nelson was paroled by the present board last March. Four paroled prisoners who have disappeared are still at large. All other violators of paroles have been returned to the reformatory or penitentiary.

IS OLD CAPITOL DANGEROUS?

State Land Commissioner Is Not Alarmed But Asks State Engineer for Another Inspection.

State Land Commissioner Dan Swanson has asked the state engineer to make a new measurement of the east wing of the old capitol to ascertain whether the walls are in danger of falling. Mr. Swanson does not believe the walls have totered any since the former measurements were taken by the state engineer, when it was found that the south wall at the south east corner of the building leaned outward about seven inches and the joist supporting the roof of representative hall project over the top of the south wall only four inches whereas they originally rested a full foot upon the wall. Mr. Swanson does not care to take any chances. He now asks for another inspection. Bridge timbers now help support the roof of representative hall.

The legislative halls are both in a precarious condition and will have to be occupied by another legislature. When the excavation for the new capitol was made within a few feet of the defective east wing State Engineer Johnson said there was no danger of a land slide in that vicinity. The excavation has since been greatly strengthened by the construction of cement walls and pillars.

PIONEER ADDRESSES LIONS

Ezra Meeker Tells of Traveling the Oregon Trail Seventy-five Years Ago.

The Lions forebore their customary roaring Thursday noon and gave close attention to Ezra Meeker, nonagenarian who is covering the country in the interests of an organization to make the old Oregon trail a memorial highway. Slight but erect, with a halo of fluffy white hair and beard, the old pioneer spoke clearly and concisely of his efforts in behalf of preserving the historic trail, resulting in organization to embody its story in films as well as in written archives. He told how the corporation had issued $200,000 worth of debenture bonds, which he is seeking to have underwritten along the trail, cities being asked to sign for an equivalent to 15 cents per capita of population.

At the end of his formal talk Mr. Meeker was prevailed on to speak of some of his early experiences, and scenes along the old trail. He told how emigrants used wagon boxes for boats and sometimes were saved from drowning by clinging to the tails of their oxen and of the vicissitudes and excitement of the western pilgrimage.

RULING BY INSURANCE BUREAU

Mrs. M. A. ANOTHER TYPHOID VICTIM

Clark Ellis of University Place Dies of the Fever at Colorado Springs Wednesday.

Clark Ellis, fourteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Ellis of 1010 East TwentiBeth street, University Place, died of typhoid fever Wednesday at Colorado Springs where he had gone with his parents on a vacation according to a telegram received by relatives here. He will be buried in Colorado Springs. His sister Mrs. William McCumbs of University Place and his brother, Roger Ellis of Omaha have gone to Colorado for the funeral. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis and Clark left about two months ago to motor to Colorado. Clark was taken ill with typhoid on the trip out. He had almost recovered when he suffered a relapse which resulted in his death Wednesday. He had lived in University Place the greater part of his life. He attended the public school there and was a member of the band.

SWIMS OVER LAKE ERIE

CARBIS WALKER MADE IT IN LESS THAN A DAY

Thirty-three Miles in Twenty-one Hours and Fifteen Minutes—Lost Twenty Pounds on Trip

LORAIN, O., Aug. 2.—Carbis Walker, the first man to swim across Lake Erie, ate a very hearty breakfast and went to bed after pulling himself ashore at 5:30 a. m. today. Walker had been in the water twenty-one hours and fifteen minutes. He swam the thirty-three miles from Point Pelee, Ont.

"I might have gone farther if it had been necessary," Walker said.

The heroic swimmer worked off twenty pounds, weighing 176 when he plunged into the lake and 156 when he came ashore here.

He was accompanied by four row boats and the gasoline launch Argus. The latter became lost in a fog and did not finish the trip until several hours later.

Members of the party accompanying Walker said the lake was smooth thruout the long swim.

Boxing Comission Unofficially Intimates Firpo is Good Enough

FANS STILL ARGUING ON JACK'S OPPONENT

Opinion Wavering on Logical Contender for Title—Rickard Firm in Belief That He Has Selected Wise Card.

By Henry L. Farrell

NEW YORK, Aug. 2—All varieties of argument are being hurled from rival corners on the pugilistic debate of the day—"who is the logical opponent for Jack Dempsey?"

With the boxing commission intimating unofficially that Luis Angel Firpo is big enough and good enough to fight for the championship and with Tex Rickard proceeding with his plans to put the south American in the ring with Dempsey on September 14 it seems that the breaks, if not the heavy logic, are with the Angel.

The partisans of Harry Wills are adding threats to their arguments and some neutrals are swinging over to the opinion that no one will fight Dempsey if the rival promoters do not quit fighting.

Tex Rickard, who signed Dempsey and Firpo, said today he would have selected Harry Wills as the opponent for the champion if he had thought it would be a better card.

"Its my business to arrange a match that would be attractive to the public and it is my opinion that the public has more curiosity in Firpo than in Wills. The judgment of our club in making this match has already been vindicated by the orders for tickets. Because we believe that it is a good card and that the officials have no ground for interference, we are going right along and getting ready for the match," Rickard said.

Red tape of the commission rules makes it necessary for the promoters to come forward with the signatures of Dempsey and Wills on paper before the commission will consider granting a license.

Dempsey will not sign articles to fight Wills until it has been assured that the fight can be staged and the commission will not give that assurance until Dempsey has been signed by a promoter.

Since Rickard has signed both Dempsey and Firpo it seems that nothing but politics could interfere with the fight and if political influences become too strong Dempsey will not be allowed to fight anyone in New York.

FOUR DOUBLE PLAYS END LINKS' RALLIES

Horseshoe Hangs Over the Coyotes When They Grab Off 2 to 1 Win—Stokes Allows But Three Safe Hits.

FAIRBURY, Neb., Aug. 2—Playing errorless baseball and outhitting the locals two to one, Buck's Clan went down to a 2 to 1 defeat here Wednesday in the opening game of the series. Four double plays halted every attempted rally of the Links.

Harkins, who was on the mound for the locals, was touched for six hits while Stokes for the visitors allowed but three bingles. The Coyotes committed an error in the field and the Links played errorless ball.

The local twirler passed two and struck out a like number while the Capital City pitcher walked but one and retired four. But in spite of the dope as it appears on paper, the Coyotes chased in a brace of runs in the first inning and won the game. The score:

Slice May Be Used To Advantage By Golfers Who Study Its Merits

Average Duffer Only Wishes to Overcome Slice While the Expert Golfer Appreciates Its Value—Useful in Getting Around Trees and Obstacles.

BY WALTER HAGEN.
(Former British Open Champion.)
(Copyright, 1923, in U. S. and Great Britain by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.)

The value of the slice is appreciated by the expert golfer, but it is a thorn in the side of the average duffer and beginner. To him it is a menace and he longs to learn enough about the game so that he can forever cast this evil aside.

It was once giving a lesson to a pupil who insisted that the only thing that he cared to learn was a way to prevent slicing. Every ball that he hit started out to the left then finished up with a semi circle curve to the right. It was the widest most complete slice I think I ever saw in all my career on the links.

Curing the Slice.

I was able to effect a cure for this distressed golfer in a very short time, and in doing it earned his undying gratitude. I asked him first if he did not recognize the fact that a slice was sometimes an asset in golf. He admitted that it might be, to some, but he could easily get along without any part of it. I asked him then if he wanted to intentionally slice a ball how he would stand and how he would hold the club. This started him to thinking and he was mixed up in a jiffy. He started to aim the ball to the right, but he was puzzled greatly about his stance.

I had to correct him, and in doing so, sent him back to his original position. He stood with his left foot drawn back from the line and aimed the ball to the rough on the left hand side of the fairway. He held the right hand well over the club, instead of under it. When he hit the ball he drew the face of the club across the ball causing it to twist from left to right. Aiming to the left was no help. About all that it did was to keep the ball on the course, at times. He was simply allowing for the slice instead of preventing it.

Slice Has Its Merits.

The slice is like a dose of poison to the duffer but the expert, like the learned doctor, uses poison to advantage in his profession. At times it is necessary to slice around a tree or a building or it is an advantage to play the ball with a fade away slice to the green.

There are two kinds of slices. One is the slice so common to all beginners or duffers. The shot is produced by the body coming into the shot too soon. The hands are away ahead of the clubhead and the ball is hit while the face of the driver is coming across it. This can easily be corrected by the stance and the grip. The player should advance the left foot to the line of flight in what is known as the square stance. If the case is chronic it is necessary to even advance the left foot still farther. In this manner it is difficult to pull in the hands. The player should aim to the right of the fairway and let the clubhead go on thru for all that it is worth.

The Grip For a Pull

The grip is important also. I would suggest that the party see that the right hand is well behind the club with the knuckles of the hand pointing to the ground. The left hand should be more over the top of the shaft. When the ball is hit, the hands, if in this position at the start, will not permit the face of the club to slide across the ball. The hands will turn over naturally and instead of the slice being imparted to the shot the effect will be a hook or what all experts know as a pull.

The pulled shot runs a very long way. The stance for it is what I have described above as something to correct a bad slice. The international slice is made by the expert by shifting his stance just a little, bringing the left foot back. He then puts the right hand more over the club and shifts the left hand so that the back faces the hole instead of the sky.

RUTH RUNNING CLOSE FOR BATTING LEAD

Firpo agreed last night to visit the ball room at a local amusement park, look the dancers over, pick out the most beautiful woman on the floor and dance with her. Luis carried out the first part of his contract. Blushing violently, he picked Miss Harvey as the beauty but when be went to dance with her his knees failed him, and he trembled violently. Fearing he would collapse completely, Matchmaker Gartland hurriedly threw up the sponge and led his ferocious charge from the pavilion.

Later Firpo returned and, still blushing a rosy red, presented Miss Harvey with a bouquet of flowers.

LITTLE LESSONS IN GOLF

What is the correct movement of the body in the follow thru?

Answered by BOB CRUIKSHANK.

The man who, in 1921, defeated Hutchison, Sarazen, and Barnes in an invitation tournament at St. Joseph, Mo. Runner up in Pittsburgh tournament for professional golfers 1922, being defeated only by Sarazen.

As the ball is being struck, both arms should be straight, the body slightly bent at the waist, head kept down. As the ball leaves the club head, the arms and club head are forced straight thru in the direction of the ball. The right knee bends inward, thus accommodating the turn of the right shoulder and the head. When the ball starts on its journey, the body relaxes and the club is carried around the left shoulder, the right shoulder now facing the line of play.

Poor Lubrication Costs Millions
Are your repair bills high?

"GIVE me a quart of oil" has cost automobile owners millions. It has sent tens of thousands of motors to the junk pile. Most bills for repairs and for the replacement of worn out parts and burned out bearings are evidence of poor lubrication.

With a new car, the experienced motorist may try several high grade oils. But he buys oil by name and grade, and standardizes on some favored grade. That's why his car runs quietly and smoothly and brings the highest price as a used car.

Polarine is the name of five grades of motor oils, each of unsurpassed quality. A grade to suit every make and size of gasoline motor—light, medium, heavy, special heavy and extra heavy. Polarine shows unusual resistance to injury by heat and it maintains a protective film of lubricant under all conditions. It does not wear out quickly.

Consult the Polarine Chart and use the grade of Polarine that has been proved best suited to your car. It is the surest way to keep down repair costs. Buy oil and gasoline where you see this sign.

LATEST MARKETS

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—An extremely dull market caused grain prices to slump at the close on the Chicago board of trade today. Wheat experienced one of the dullest days in several months. Practically nothing was done thruout the entire session. Outside support was lacking and only wheat business was done between locals created a market. Export demand was also absent.

Corn lacked support and with wheat eased off late. Cooler weather and showers over the western grain belt have relieved fears of crop damage from firing and drought. Reports from Iowa declared beneficial rains fell most of the day.

Oats eased off with other grains and a lack of demand. Cash prices also went down reflecting the movement in other spot markets.

Provisions were lower.

Chicago Tribune Report.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Many grain traders believe that bearish conditions have been largely if not wholly discounted for the time being. One factor is that there is actually no burdensome surplus of wheat in the leading states east of the rockies.

Five Senators were reported to have discussed yesterday at Indianapolish with Governor McCray of Indiana the farm situation. Their plan is to urge President Harding to call an extra session of Congress to take up agricultural conditions.

The impression of grain trade leaders is that if the government were to buy and export the 150,000,000 bushels surplus wheat the situation would mend readily without other assistance. Congress however must authorize it.

Operators are inclined to favor the buying side of September corn on the breaks because the July delivery went out at 90 cents. They look for cash corn to be scarce the balance of the season.

Commission houses who have been the largest holders of all deliveries were free sellers yesterday, while local operators were the best buyers.

Cash handlers of corn in central Iowa say that up to within a few days it has been impossible to buy any corn in western Iowa as it was taken by feeders for shipment to the southwest.

That demand has kept up 30 days longer than usual but is now falling off and corn that had been going southward is now turning to the east for a market. A fair movement is expected from that section.—Lamson Bros. & Co.

Journal of Commerce Report.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—There was a feeling in the grain trade yesterday after the close that prices of all grains will continue to work gradually upward if agitators will kindly refrain from issuing radical statements for a little while.

Prices are low enough to attract investors and there is enough uncertainty in regard to the final outcome of the crops to appeal to those that speculate.

Increased activity is noticed in the flour trade but export business continues disappointing and reports were current that France and Hamburg were offering to cancel several parcel lots of wheat.

James E. Cairns of Jackson Bros. & Co. calls attention to exports of wheat and flour which up to July 1 for the year 1922-1923 were 222,000,000 bushels against 279,000,000 bushels the previous year and 366,000,000 in 1920-1921.

At the present rate we are exporting he says, it is doubtful if we shall export 150,000,000 bushels wheat and flour during the coming year.—Lamson Bros. & Co.

Broad and Wall's Gossip.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Favorable statement of earnings by the United States steel corporation and the general motors corporation were offered as reasons for the sharp rally yesterday in the stock market, but the basis for the bulge lies in the fact that the market had been oversold and stocks were beginning to grow scarce; foreign exchange particularly French francs continues to show weakness. Quite a few international bankers believe the trend will continue downward as long as there is no settlement of the reparations and Ruhr questions. The weakness is attributed to the steady expansion in the sale of internal French government obligations.—Lamson Bros. & Co.

Grain Market Opinions.

Stein Alstrin: The trade is quite willing to support any movementthat will promise higher prices.

Hulburd Warren: We would buy conservatively on all breaks.

Bartlett Frazier: Underlying conditions are becoming stronger daily.

Riordan Martin: We favor buying all grains on the declines.

Thompson McKinnon: Existing conditions have been fully discounted.

Clement Curtis: With clearances confirming the almost total absence of export business we believe that wheat will pile up more than ever before.—Lamson.

Wheat Disposal Dark.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 2.—W. I. Drummond, chairman of the board of governors of the American farm bureau federation, says:

"There is little prospect of accomplishing anything substantial in connection with the disposal of the wheat crop. Apparently this will have to be sold to the best advantage in the face of present conditions. Any holding movement merely means an overloading of the market when the grain finally is released and consequently reduced prices."—Lamson.

Dakota Wheat Light.

WEBSTER, S. D., Aug. 2.—In northwestern South Dakota harvest practically finished. Wheat is generally light as a result of rust and heat. Earliest wheat good quality; crop will run seven to ten bushels and will grade 1 to 3. In the hill country harvest is in full swing, crop average about same except that a alrger percentage is durum. That will yield better. Oats generally good quality and will yield heavily. Corn very good.—Lamson.

Kansas City Livestock Market.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 2.—Cattle—Receipts, 2,400; calves, 1,000; beef grade steers and yearlings scarce; early sales strong to 15 cents higher; other class steers fully steady; early top weighty steers, $10.85; better grade she stocks and cattle fully steady; in between grades slow; bulls weak; bolognas mostly $4.00@4.25; calves strong; early sales to shippers of light vealers at $9.25; packing top, $9.00; stockers and feeders, slow.

Hogs—Receipts, 3,000; market, slow, mostly 20@25 cents higher to shippers; packers holding back; bulk desirable 170 to 250 pound averages at $7.40@7.60; packing sows steady; mostly $5.75@6.15; stock pigs, steady; bulk, $6.20@6.50.

Sheep—Receipts, 2,000; lambs strong to 25 cents higher; Idahos, $12.35; natives, $11.50; practically no sheep offered.

Omaha Livestock Market.

OMAHA, Aug. 2.—Cattle—Receipts, 3,000; steers ruled active and mostly 15@25 cents higher on a very light Thursday run. Best grades moved first, but all classes claered early and shared in the advance. Several loads of heavy beeves reached $11.40 and long yearlings brought $11.20. Prices are generally 25 cents to in extremes 40 cents higher for the week. Cows were a little more active today but grass cows are still dull at the week's declines of 25 cents or more, extreme losses amounting to 50c. Corn feds have held steady. Stockers and feeders are closing the week more active and a little stronger.

Hogs—Receipts, 14,000. There was a broad demand from all quarters today and the market opened 15@25c higher and closed a big 25c higher. Good quality light hogs sold largely at $7.10@7.60 with a top price of $7.70. Mixed loads brought $6.50@7.10, and packing sows, $6.25@6.50 with heavy rough kinds at $6.00@6.25.

Sheep—Receipts, 13,000. The liberal receipts of fat lambs today met with a slow demand and the market was slow in opening, prices ruling steady to 25 cents lower. Several cars of good quality fed clipped lambs sold steady at $11.50 while western lambs were slow at $12.00. Feeders were strong with early sales at $12.00@12.25. Sheep were fully steady, light ewes selling at $6.75.

OMAHA, Aug. 2.—Cattle—Receipts, 3,000; market, steers, 15@25c higher; others about steady; yearlings, $6.50@11.20; steers, $8.50@11.45; cows and heifers, $2.50@9.50; stockers and feeders, $2.50@8.35; calves, $5.00@9.00; bulls and stags, $4.50@7.50; western rangers, $3.50@8.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 14,000; market, 15@25c higher; bulk, $6.50@7.50; top, $7.70.

Stock Market Opinions.

Housman & Co.: It looks as if the rally could go a little further.

Clark-Childs & Co.: Good stocks look a purchase on further recessions.

Harris Winthrop & Co.: On the whole the list showed a better tone.

Logan & Bryan: It is not unreasonable to anticipate gradual price betterment in security values.

Miller & Co.: Everyone trying to make a bull market on fundamentals. The market should have some further recovery but do not think it will go far.—Lamson.

Chicago Stocks.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—H. B. Signor says: The liquidation from which to stocks market suffered so acutely on Tuesday disappeared entirely yesterday. Those who sold stocks on account of President Harding's illness were quick to take them back when it became known that the president was out of danger. Stock market prices have reached a level where the recoveries are more frequent and prices recover with greater ease. The selling pressure appears to have spent its force and more attention to the constructive side is beginning to appear. The Iron Trade says: "Confidence in iron and steel conditions show noticeable improvement the past week." We expect security markets to gradually work higher and advise purchases on recessions.—Lamson.

Wall Street Journal Review.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Stocks opened firmer today on a fair amount of activity with the gains ranging from a fraction to 1¾ points in American Smelting.

Steel common at 87⅝ was within ⅛ of the high of Wednesday.

Reports continued to relate the improvement in President Harding's condition while another favorable development was the new high record in car loadings being made in the week ended July 21. Reports of failures in July showed the smallest total of any month since November, 1920.

GENIUS RUINED HIS PICTURES

Destructive Methods of Turner to Make His More Brilliant.

There may have been careless or ignorant painters, of course, all thru the centuries, and that is perhaps partly why so many old pictures have vanished, but so far as one age is concerned, Reynolds and Turner seem to have been among the first to start the rot which has ended in the establishment of the canvas and colorman's shop and the disestablishment of the artist's knowledge of his trade. Reynolds, in his anxiety to turn out his hundred portraits a year and make them as brilliant in a week as the old masters did in a year, was eternally hunting for something he called their secrets, which he naturally enough did not find because they were no secrets at all but only the results of knowledge of their materials and care and patience with the use of them. As for Turner, he was many steps further down the slope to destruction According to G. D. Leslie, who ought to know because he saw him do it. "Turner went about from one of his canvasses to another on the varnishing days piling on, mostly with the knife, all the brighest pigments he could lay his hands on, chromes, emerald green, vermilion, etc., until they literally blazed with light and color. They looked more like some of the transformation scenes at the pantomimes than anything else. Artists used to dread having their pictures hung beside an open window. They caught the eye the instant you entered the room. They were certainly most lovely and brilliant effects of color, but their meaning and the subjects were entirely unintelligible.

"At the present time, tho their unintelligibility remains, their radiant tints have long departed, and in my opinion, they might just as well be burnt. Turner used to send these pictures into the academy with only a delicate effect, almost in monochrome, laid on the canvas, and very beautiful they looked, often like milky ghosts. They had probably been painted for some time, as they were quite dry and hard; all the bright color was loaded on afterwards, the pictures gradually growing stronger in effect and color during the three varnishing days.

"I believe that Turner had for a long time been in the habit of preparing works for future exhibition, laying in, with simple colors, the effect and composition, painting them solidly and very quickly with considerable impasto, and allowing the whole to dry and harden together. He would use no fugitive pigments in these preparations, contenting himself with the ochres, siennas and earth browns with real ultramarine, black and a very liberal allowance of white. He must, I think, have had [illegible] thus commenced laid by in his studio, from which he would take one, from time to time, to send to the academy for exhibition.

"I have formed this opinion from having seen the remarkable series of Turner's works that were recently discovered and since hung in the national collection. The preservation of these pictures is remarkable and I have a very strong conviction that they were probably painted very quickly. Perhaps any one of them represents little more than a day's work. That the safest and simplest pigments alone were used, accounts for their great preservation, their mellow tone being merely the effect of time. If I am right in my conjecture we ought to be thankful that they were never exhibited, for if this had been the case, they would, most likely have by this time been ruined thru the deleterious pigments with which he would have overlaid them on varnishing days."

They may not do that now, but it is probably largely because there is only one varnishing day instead of three. Even on one May day in this year of grace they will repaint a picture, key it up above its fellows, smear it all over with any one of a hundred vivifying nostrums, and if they cannot follow Turner all the way as an artist they do their best to run him close as a craftsman. After Turner there was not much more solid craft at all except in revival and individuals such as the pre-Raphaelites, who tried to stem the tide of technical as well as artistic obliquity. Holman Hunt certainly succeeded and his pictures are most of them as sound as the day they were painted.—Eric Brown. Director of the National Gallery of Canada in Arts and Decoration.

Timber Barges.

An innovation in lumber shipping on the Pacific coast that probably will result in a complete revolution of transportation methods, a lowering of lumber cargo rates and at the same time will open a market for the hundred or more now useless Ferris hulls constructed by the government during the late war, is being made by the McCoullough-Fagan Lumber company of Los Angeles.

The trail-blazer for the enterprise is the tug Roosevelt, the vessel used by Admiral Robert E. Peary in his trip to the north pole. The famous tug left Los Angeles harbor recently, after completing the first lap in what shipping men believe will be an epoch making voyage.

According to Bushnell W. Bookstaver, manager for the local lumber company, the lumber schooner is to be done away with by his company and in its place will come the tug and barge. After constant experiment with Ferris hulls, a method of remodeling them has been discovered that will make them useful as lumber barges, Mr. Bookstaver said.

The McCollough - Fagan Lumber company recently acquired use of three of these Ferris hulls constructed by the government at a cost of $250,000 each and sold at present at $1,800 each.

"The Ferris hull has never proven practical as a seagoing vessel to be operated under its own power," Mr. Bookstaver said. "After experiments by the Washington Tug and Barge company, it was found that the hulls could be converted into lumber barges. These hulls have now been remodeled at a cost of approximately $40,000 each, and are capable of carrying 2,500,000 feet of lumber. The barges carry a crew of five men and the tug a crew of six. A very powerful type of tug is necessary for the work, and, in the Roosevelt and the Daniel Kern, the tugs now in operation, have been placed 1,400-horsepower engines. These tugs are also equipped with two of the most powerful towing engines on the Pacific coast.

An ordinary lumber schooner's capacity is less than one of the barges, resulting from loss of space for the men's quarters and engine rooms on the schooner. Whereas an ordinary schooner will carry a crew of thirty men, but eleven will be employed under the new method.

Added to this advantage, according to Mr. Bookstaver, the tug can be made to perform triple service. After pulling a loaded barge down Puget sound it can immediately return to the north with a loaded barge, and bring another loaded barge to Los Auzeles, while one barge is being loaded at Puget sound and another at Los Angeles being unloaded.

"From all indications, the inauguration of tugs and barges in the lumber business is going to result in an almost complete revolution of the shipping buisness," Mr. Bookstaver said. "We plan to operate the new service between Los Angeles and Puget sound only."—Los Angeles Times.

Embargo a Two Edged Sword.

Under traditional protectionist theory Canada can make out an excellent technical case for thelawempoweringthe governor general to place an embargo on the exportation of pulp wood. An embargo would draw an increasing share of the pulp industry to Canada and make employment for a considerable number of Canadian workers. But we hope that the statesmen of Canada will bearinmind that the embargo is a game that both sides can play. Last winter the demand for an embargo on anthracite became very insistent in all our northwestern states. It will be heard again when the next coal crisis comes, and the precedent of a Canadian embargo on pulp wood could hardly fail to tell. We could make out even a better case for a coal embargo. Canada and the United States have much to gain by the freest practicable commercial intercourse. Each can inflict serious injury upon the other by pursuing a narrowly selfish policy. But neither will find that it pays.—New eRpublic.

Change In Subscription Rate

In Lincoln and suburbs, commencing August 1st, the subscription rate of the Evening and Sunday Journal, seven papers a week, by carrier will be

50c Per Month

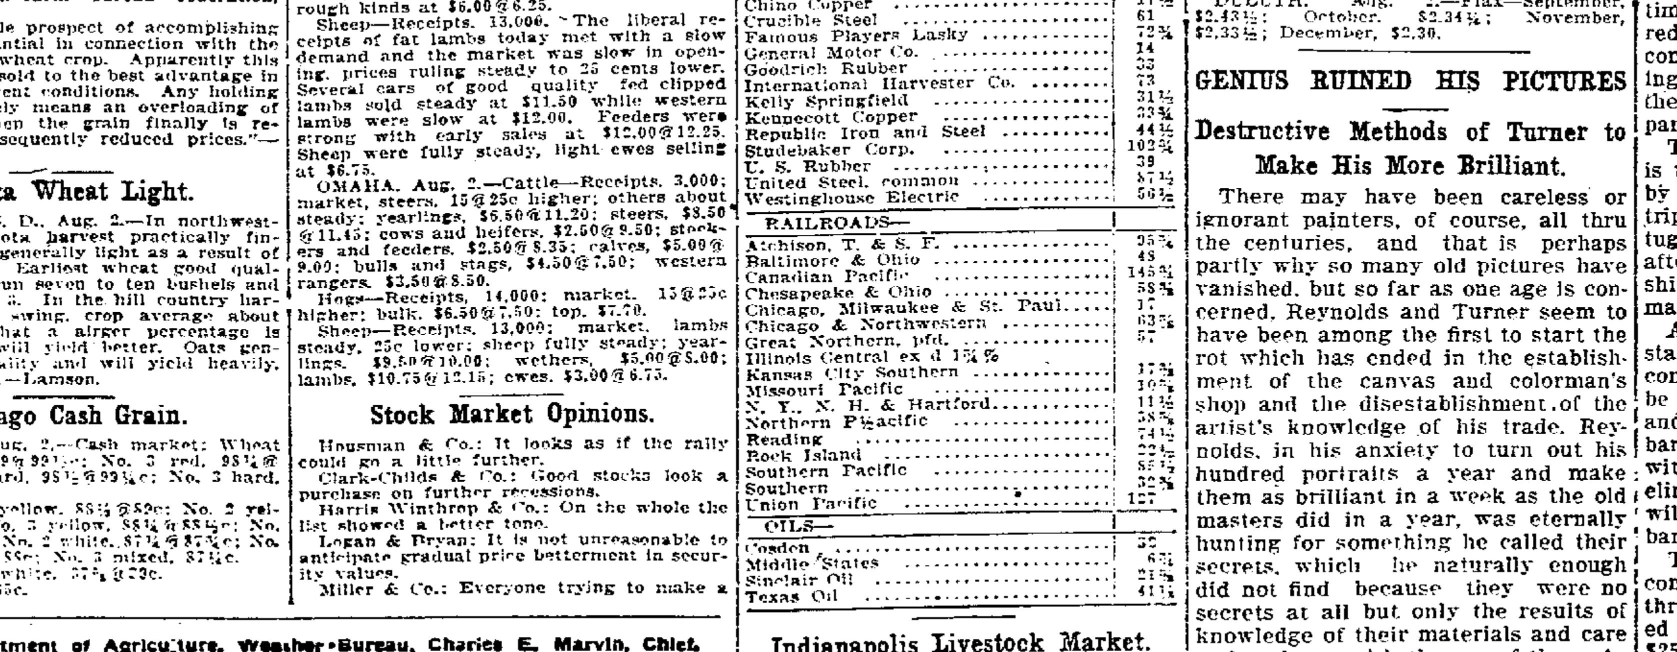

The new rate is an increase of 15 cents a month, but represents only a small portion of the actual costs of production.

Of the fifty cents a month paid by the subscriber twenty cents will go to the carrier boy for his service.

Even the new rate is much lower than newspaper prices in most cities of Lincoln's class.

The rate of twenty cents a week now charged for the double service of the Morning, Evening and Sunday Journal (13 papers a week) will remain the same. This rate is likewise less than collected for similar service in other cities.

NEBRASKA NEWS

Beatrice—Tom Heeley, Beatrice man, accompanied by his thirteen-year-old son, left on foot for Salt Lake City. They recently came to Beatrice from Denver, starting the trip on foot, but not having to walk over fifteen miles on their journey home. The expect to be just as successful in picking up rides on their trip to the Utah state capital.

Wymore—Mrs. Mary F. Lacy, widow of the late Huram Lacy, pioneer of Gage county, was appointed administratrix of the estate at a hearing in Beatrice, Monday. Lacy died at his home in Wymore, July 12, leaving an estate estimated at $35,000, practically all in Gage county land. There are nine children.

Wymore—Thomas Wilson, resident of this city, a member of a Burlington railway bridge gang working near Johnson, just east of here, Monday rebuilding a bridge for the railway over a small stream, was bitten on the foot by a water moccasin as he stepped to the edge of the water. The reptile is poisonous, but the victim will recover.

Wymore—Blue Springs, just north of here, is to have a chautaqua commencing August 13 and ending August 17. There are several lecturers, musical numbers and a romantic drama with special scenery on the program.

Omaha—Marriage licenses were issued here to Ferdinand Peterson, twenty-six, and Martha Benke, twenty-one, both of Elkhorn; Carlos L. Conrad, twentyfour, of North Bend, and Marjorie Farris, twentyone, of Fremont; Willard S. Montgomery, twenty-five, of Lincoln, and Gladys M. Parr, twenty-one, of Rosalie, Ken.

Nebraska City—A suit that would revive the old Nebraska Retail Liquor Dealer's association, which has been out of existence for years, has been begun in an Omaha court, and all Nebraska City members of the organization that are yet alive have been served with notice of the suit. It was started by W. F. Poppenhagen, to compel the members to pay up back dues, to assist him settle a judgment secured against him by another party, part of which has been paid by the members, before dissolution of the association. Three of the local members, for whom summonses were issued, are dead, and the fourth is now serving a term in the penitentiary at Lancaster, for violation of the liquor laws.

Surprise — There are eighteen threshing machines in this township. All of them have plenty to do. Some of the farmers are stacking their grain and will not thresh it until October. No fall plowing is being done yet as the ground is too dry and hard.

Council Bluffs—Marriage licenses were issued here to James F. Smith, twenty-two, and Blanche Holdren, nineteen, both of Lincoln, Neb.; Tudor Pederson, twenty-three, and Alice Norger, twenty-one, both of Fremont; Benjamin A Washington, thirty-seven, and Ainley Connelly, twenty-eight, both of Lincoln.

Nebraska City—An eight weeks term of special summer school, that was conducted here at the high school building, for students who were back in their regular studies, has just closed, and the teachers believe that the entire ninety-one pupils who attended its sessions, will be able to go on their regular classes next fall.

Nebraska City — Jay Sheldon, a farmer in the Percival, Iowa district, has lost five horses in the past two weeks. Three of them died of disease before a veterinarian could arrive in either case, and two were accidentally killed one by being cut and the other by lightning. The horses were valued at more than $500.

Wymore—John J. Schmidt, farmer east of Wymore, former Wymore business man, received word from Otis, Colo., Tuesday, that his field of 100 acres of wheat near that place was dead ripe, had not been cut, and that there was no help available to handle the crop at Otis. Schmidt picked up five men at Wymore and started at once by train for Otis where he will try to hire harvest machinery and care for the crop. It is said to average 30 to 35 bushels to the acre.

Guide Rock—New potatoes have began to move from here to eastern markets. Three carloads are now being loaded and will be shipped to St. Joseph and Chicago. There are several growers in this vicinity now, four men having the principal acreage, which will total about 300 acres this season. The yield is said to be very good, but the price is low and the Kaw valley production has overstocked the Kansas City markets and it will be necessary to ship the surplus from here farther east.

Wymore—The Burlington passenger station at Wymore is being repainted by a gang of workmen. The depot was built forty-one years ago when the road came in here, is almost entirely of old fashioned white pine, and this makes the eighth complete coat of paint put on the building since erected.

Valparaiso—Friends have received announcement of a daughter born to Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Howard of Windsor, Colo. Mrs. Howard was Miss Ethel Greeno, who was born and reared here. Rev. Mr. Howard is pastor of the Christian church at Windsor.

Valparaiso — Miss Rosie Kloke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kloke, of Valparaiso, and Mr. James Klingamen of Papillion were married in Pappillion Monday afternoon in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends. Mr. Klingamin is a medical student. For the time being they will reside in Papillion. Mrs. Klingamen is a native of Valparaiso and graduated from the schools here.

Before departing for the orient, the Chinese crews of Pacific coast steamers conduct weird ceremonies intended to please the good spirits and baffle the evil ones.

Let Us Pay Your Life Insurance Premiums

Paying your Life Insurance Premiums annually often finds you just a wee bit cramped for funds, and if you are allowed 30 days' grace you generally take it.

Paying your Life Insurance Premiums semi-annually as a rule costs you about 4 per cent more than the annual rate. Paying quarterly, about 6 per cent additional. This is fair, too, because all premiums are calculated on being paid annually in advance; and if you wait six months before paying half of yours, it is an advantage you ought to pay a reasonable amount for.

Our Eltelic plan enables you to pay all your Life Insurance Premiums on a monthly basis—one-twelfth of the grand total each month—and yet take advantage of the annual premium rate with all the Companies. Besides this, your money earns 5 per cent interest every day it is in our possession—5 per cent on daily balances, calculated once a year.

No matter how many policies you have or how the premium payments are scattered throughout the year, our Eltelic plan handles all of them without a hitch, once we get it clear of the semi-annual and quarterly premiums you may be carrying; and exactly one-twelfth of the grand total paid by you to us each month enables us to pay each premium to the Life Insurance Company when it falls due.

Nearly a hundred of Lincoln's progressive business and professional men and women are now enjoying the benefits of Eltelic. Some have been with us nearly two years and they find great relief in meeting their Life Insurance premiums. Not only are they enjoying the lowest annual premium rate, but the 5 per cent we pay on daily balances is generally a surprise when they get our notice of the amount credited.

Ask for circular letter and copy of the Eltelic contract. It provides the easiest way of paying for Life Insurance.

The Obstacle.

"Ah, now, really, little boy," said a lady motorist, halting her car in front of the Johnson residence on Rumpus Ridge, "don't you think you ought to take a bath?"

"Reckon so," replied young Greedy Johnson, who seemed to be sadly soiled. "If I can ever find on that'll fit me."—Kansas City Star.

MEN AND THINGS.

Probably no period in the life of the literary world ever saw so strong a group of thinkers and scientists as were writing about the time that Huxley, Spencer, Darwin and Tyndall were giving to the public the results of their studies. If these exist today we do not hear much about them. Their writings constituted very heavy stuff, if we may borrow from contemporary slang, and those of us who do not possess the mental training that was theirs find it difficult to become interested. Yet a dip now and then into their works is to be commended.

If one may bottom an opinion on a casual reading Huxley was most insistent upon every man employing the truth as the guide to his reason and conscience. Writing at a time when scientific freedom was just bursting thru ancient bonds, they assumed, as they grew stronger, an attitude of mind rebellious in character that one may well conceive had its origin in the knowledge that they were attacking long-standing foundations. The result was a great deal of negative declaration that gives the impression that having lost hold on old traditions they were not capable of proving new truths. They banished faith from any relation to truth, and there is where they fail to convince.

Simplicity and civilization do not seem to go hand in hand. One of the strongly held beliefs of men, at least those of mature minds, is that contentment is to be found in simplifying life, yet every step that progress makes seems to create in us new wants that, as soon as satisfied, find expression in a demand for something more. Thus we make life more complex as we develop science and invention, and there is no stopping this tendency of things. Is it another case where we pretend a philosophy we do not believe in?

Here is a bit of philosophy culled from a letter written by Rev. A. B. Whitmer, who has been confined to bed in his University Place home by paralysis for two years, to a friend at Auburn, his former home: "I am still on my back, but threaten to go it on the floor like a baby. Two years in bed gets on a fellow's nerves and he is willing to hang up on a clothes line rather than look at a bed. If I were ball-bearing it would be easier, but I find I am just one of the mill-run of men. If I should get my nerves righted I would go to every sufferer in this city and sweetly contribute to his relief. I would cultivate sympathy for all kinds of people traveling the corduroy road and enduring the pelting storms of life. I would invest in doing good as the only paying proposition where the joy is abiding and complete." Testimony from a man who has occupied a bed of pain that long needs no corroboration.

Why is it that we look about as scornfully on the neatly-dressed man as we do upon the untidily dressed woman? Probably because of old standards. We laugh when we read that the English judges still carry bouquets into their courtrooms because centuries ago, when the country was in the grip of the black plague, it became a custom on the theory that flowers were a preventive. Yet we cling to a lot of old notions and ideas ourselves. In the eastern cities the swagger men wear canes. Here a man would probably be arrested for doing it. It is not he-man stuff. It has not been many years ago that our local society leaders were a bit nervous when they started out into the night wearing high hats and white gloves, but their fear of the indignant populace was less than that of the man who said they had to wear the stuff, and they kept at it.

The impression we gain that most persons are devoting all their leisure time and a part that might profitably be devoted to remunerative tasks to riding in their automobiles does not seem to square with other things observed. If the book advertisements are a criterion more of them are being written and presumably sold than ever before. Long lists of new publications greet the eye in every magazine that has pretensions to being a book mart. Somebody reads these and it takes time to do it. And you cannot run or ride in an automobile and read a book at the same time.

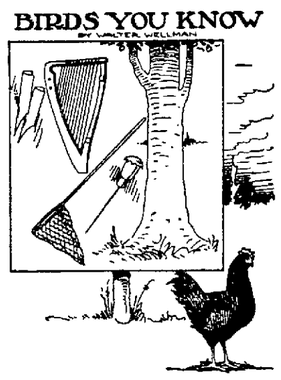

If we had the time we would like to make a calculation as to the vast amount of money absolutely wasted by being invested in large front porches in Lincoln. When we began to build the better class of houses twenty or twenty-five years ago we broke away from the old habit of using only a few extra feet off the front for porch purposes and built them the full width. The idea was that this would provide a fine and comfortable gathering place for the family after dinner and be a nice place in which to entertain friends. But the movies and the auto take everybody away from home, and calls are now made by telephone. No wonder the new houses are using only postage stamp dimensions porches. It's real economy.

Why don't they shoot a little advice into college students each day instead o' handin' it t' 'em all in a lump when they graduate? When a consumer feels like he needs a double garage he goes down in his pocket an' pays fer it, but when a public utility wants t' expand it makes its customers pay th' bill.

Will Rogers' home town, Tulsa, Oklahoma, has pressed him to return long enough to give a show in an armory there that seats 10,000 people. But Rogers says he won't go. "Not back there where they all know me," says Will. "Why, they'd say, 'Will's just talking the way he used to on the street corner 'round here. Old Cap Stallings can talk more'n that. This ain't no show."
